TEN PRISONERS BREAK COUNTY JAIL

EFFECT ESCAPE BY SAWING IRON BARS OF CELL WINDOWS

Of Plot At St. Clairsville

ST. CLAIRSVILLE, O., Nov. 14.—Ten prisoners escaped from the county jail here early today and had not been recaptured at a late hour.

The delivery was discovered by George Douglas, jailer who was given details of the escape by Neal Davis, a Negro prisoner.

Davis said the escape took place at 3 a. m. He was awakened by the noise of an iron shutter, then heard a window raise, he said.

The prisoners then sawed the bars and the men slid to the ground on a rope improvised with bed-clothing.

Davis said he heard an automobile start and drive towards the city limits.

County authorities believe friends of William Porter of Bellaire, who was convicted of robbery yesterday, engineered the delivery.

Among those escaping were Porter and the following:

W. M. Combs, Martins Ferry, accused of robbery.

John M. Tins, Martins Ferry, burglary.

William Hawkins, Bellaire, larceny.

William Mosso, Bellaire, pointing firearms.

Charles Stevens, Martins Ferry, robbery.

Bennie Spencer, negro, St. Clairsville, liquor law.

All the prisoners recently were indicted by the county grand jury.

The saw with which they cut the bars apparently was smuggled into the jail sometime yesterday.

Forty-eight other prisoners were occupying cells on the first and third floors this morning.

The residence and office of Sheriff C. C. Hardesty are in the front part of the structure.

The jailer immediately summoned a posse and a countrywide search was started.

Surrounding towns and villages were notified and asked to send out armed men in an attempt to capture the fugitives.

NINETEEN CHINESE PIRATES IN MURDER ATTACK ARE CAPTURED

SHANGHAI, Nov. 14.—Nineteen of the pirates who looted the British steamer Hsin Chi and killed scores of Chinese, have been captured by the British Destroyer Sarapis, it was announced here today.

The Sarapis also recovered two junks loaded with loot, which the pirates had taken from the Hsin Chi.

Seven members of the crew of the British steamer were killed, dispatches from the Sarapis said this morning. All others escaped.

The Hsin Chi is a loss and was burning this morning.

The pirates attacked the steamer yesterday after it had been grounded off Tse Island, near Foochow. The bandits boarded the vessel, killed many Chinese, and completely looted the valuable cargo.

The cargo was loaded into junks and the pirates escaped just before a gun boat arrived.

The gunboat was unable to give any aid to the Hsin Chi inasmuch as that vessel almost was gone when the gunboat arrived.

There were a number of English and Americans aboard but as far as can be learned, none was injured.

PRESIDENT-ELECT TO VISIT SOUTHERN STATES ON RETURN

Considers Cabinet Appointment From "Solid South"

PALO ALTO, Calif., Nov. 14.—President-elect Hoover had about decided today to prolong his visit in the south on his return from his South American tour until just before his inauguration.

He previously had considered proposals that he return home by way of Florida, stopping for a few days there and proceeding by easy stages back to Washington. After further consideration of the matter, he has come to see the advantage of setting up winter headquarters in the south and planning his administration at some restful place.

Since the advantages of a prolonged stay have been brought forcibly before him, the possible places where he might establish himself have been increased.

Florida first was suggested. Recently, the list has been enlarged, including Pass Christian, Miss., where Woodrow Wilson spent some time, and San Antonio, Tex.

In addition to avoiding the shush and snow of a Washington winter, the president-elect would be farther from office seekers who haunt Washington, particularly on the eve of a new administration.

Not the least of the advantages of a southern stay would be the opportunity of mixing with the southerners and making contacts of future political benefit in that section which gave him four of its states and a tremendous vote generally.

Hoover is giving serious attention to the break in the solid south, a break which belied the prediction of most political prophets, major as well as minor. He and his political lieutenants are thinking ways to capitalize it, realizing its immense importance in the future of the Republican party.

The president-elect, it is known, is combing the field of southern talent in making his cabinet state. One or more places will go, it is believed, to men from below the Mason and Dixon line.

M'PHERSON CASE TO THE FRONT AGAIN

With the appearance in court at Los Angeles of District Attorney Asa Keyes to answer charges of "wild and corrupt" conduct in office, the case of Almee Sennie McPherson, woman evangelist, is being brought to the forefront again. Keyes dismissed the McPherson case two years ago when the evangelist and her mother, Mrs. Minnie Kennedy, were accused of conspiracy to obstruct justice as the result of the kidnapping of Mrs. McPherson. The latter and Keyes are shown above. Inset is of Mrs. Kennedy.

GENERAL TARIFF REVISION IS PLAN OF CONGRESS LEADERS

WASHINGTON, Nov. 14.—A general revision of the tariff is being planned by returning congressional leaders.

They have no hopes of undertaking the task at the coming session, but they are almost unanimously of the opinion that it should be begun in a special session beginning next March 4.

While much water will go over many dams before March, the unanimity of opinion indicates an unexpected change of sentiment all around, which may be expected eventually to bring about a revision of the present tariff system which now has been in effect six years.

The farmers' representatives are joining hands with the congressional industrialists to promote the idea. Both confidently expect President-elect Hoover will be compelled to call an extra session after his inauguration even though a farm relief bill is passed in the short session, because they figure no farm relief can be adequate without tariff revision.

They point jointly to the fact that Hoover and the Republican platform as the primary principle of farm relief, and they agree the farm relief question cannot possibly be solved in the rush of November.

Industrialists want the tariff on some of their products increased, and see their chance to get action presently. They believe they can take advantage of what they regard as a protective wave over the country as a result of the Republican victory in the election.

Democrats generally agree with the industrialists.

DEMOCRATIC PARTY STILL VIGOROUS IS FINAL SMITH CLAIM

Co-operation With President-Elect Urged
By Governor

NEW YORK, Nov. 14.—Just before stepping from the political arena in which he has played so conspicuous a part, Gov. Alfred E. Smith delivered a "message to the American people" last night, calling upon the Democratic party to "carry on." The address was broadcast over a nation-wide hook-up of radio stations.

He urged the party to look forward and plan a constructive program of accomplishment which would constitute a firm foundation for the 1932 presidential campaign.

Complete cooperation with President-Elect Hoover would be the duty of every member of the Democratic party, he said, pointing out that way would be the way of all good citizens. He is now the leader of the nation, not just of the Republican party, and he is entitled to a fair chance to plan and carry out a national program, Smith said.

His own defeat, he said, in no way indicated that the Democratic party lay crushed and broken. On the contrary it was alive and vigorous, and he stood in a position to more successfully than ever solicit the confidence and support of the American people, Governor Smith said.

Though the radio speech was, in a sense, the final word of the nominee to his party, Smith declared that he was as intensely interested as ever in the principles of the Democratic party and that he previously announced, however, that he would never again be a candidate for public office.

Toucing upon the bitterness aroused in the campaign which just closed, he urged that it all should be swept aside and forgotten and the people set their faces with common enthusiasm to the nation's welfare.

"A political party must also be accountable to the people of the United States for the management of its internal affairs," he said, "and no political party can afford to accept the support of forces for whom it refuses to accept responsibility."

Smith stressed the demand of an active minority in the country under the American political system as it stands.

"The Democratic party certainly would not be in a position four years from now to solicit the confidence and support of the American people if during that period it neglected to build up a constructive program and relied entirely upon the failure of the opposition party," he said.

"This cannot be done by the minority party permitting itself to become a party of obstruction and opposition for political purposes only."

"It would be regarded as a constructive achievement if the Democratic party at Washington were to offer to the congress of the United States, and there defend it. A refusal on the part of the party to bring about party unity for the solution of these problems would then fix the responsibility on the party and make a record on which a successful campaign can be waged four years from now."

Pointing to his tremendous popularity vote, Smith told his audience both radio and the 200 friends and relatives gathered to hear him in the WEAU studio—that such a policy must be adopted if the party wished to keep faith with the millions who voted for him Nov. 6.

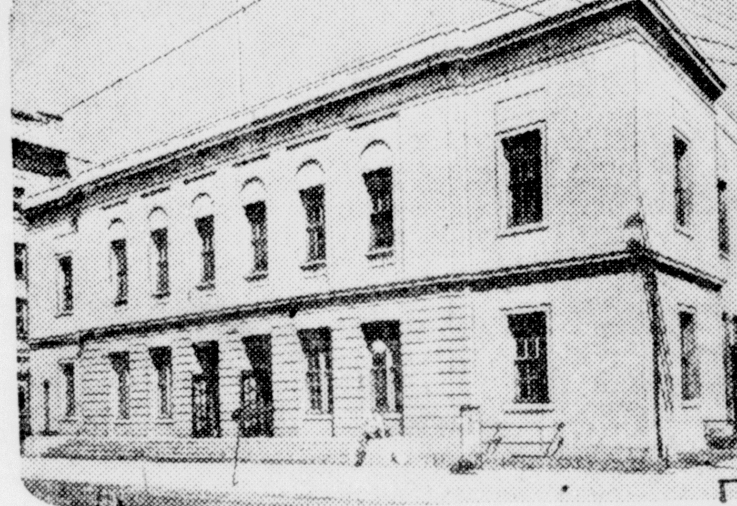

Accompanied by friends, Governor Smith planned to leave at 10 a. m. today for a two weeks vacation at the Edgewater Golf Hotel, near Blox, Miss. He said that he was anxious to put the cares and worries of politics far behind him.

John J. Raskob, chairman of the Democratic national committee; William F. Kennen, in whose private car the trip will be made; and James J. Riordan will be Smith's companions on the southern journey.

ROBBERS LOOT NEW POSTOFFICE

At least nine men are believed by federal authorities to have participated in a $100,000 robbery of the new post office at Steubenville, O. Assistant Postmaster Charles Irwin, left above, was seized, bound and gagged and forced to watch the robbers burn through the vault, when he noticed the lights were not burning and went inside to investigate. Right above, Fred Klagas, post office truck driver, who nearly lost his life in the robbery. He was outside the building and Irwin heard the robbers discussing whether or not they should open fire on him. The post office is below.

PHYSICIAN PLEADS NOT GUILTY; BOUND OVER TO GRAND JURY

Champaign County
Health Officer Denies Charge

COLUMBUS, O., Nov. 14.—Dr. J. Forest Stultz, young Urbana physician and Champaign County health commissioner who pleaded not guilty before Judge S. D. Doney to a charge of illegal possession and use of prescription whiskey, also denies that he resisted arrest by a constable working out of Doney's court.

Following his hearing before Doney, in Bexley, yesterday afternoon, Dr. Stultz said:

"I didn't resist arrest. I was in a hurry to get back to Urbana, and when he went for my automobile, I just started my automobile and went on."

The whiskey found on the doctor was bought in Columbus. Dr. Stultz said he prescribed the two half-pints for his wife and father-in-law.

At his hearing, Dr. Stultz waived examination, pleaded not guilty and asked to be bound over to the county jury.

Alan Pretzman, Columbus lawyer and attorney for the village of Bexley, and Attorney S. S. Deaton, of Urbana, represented Dr. Stultz at his hearing yesterday.

SHERIFF TATE SAYS CLAIM OF ATTORNEY ONLY PARTLY SOUND

Answers Charge That Jail Is Unsanitary;
Blames Ventilation

A charge that the Greene County Jail is unsanitary was partly admitted and partly denied by Sheriff Ohmer Tate when advised that W. S. Rhotamel, Dayton attorney, pleading for a client sentenced in Dayton federal court to the local jail Wednesday morning, asked that he be committed to some other jail because the Xenia jail is unsanitary.

Rhotamel also complained that visiting is permitted only on Wednesdays, which would work a hardship on relatives of the prisoner, who work, and would only be able to visit the jail here on Sundays.

The court is said to have admitted hearing similar complaints against the Xenia jail before and he therefore sentenced the man to the Miami County Jail, Troy.

Sheriff Tate admitted that an unsanitary condition exists insofar as ventilation and lighting are concerned only, declaring that grand juries, making semi-annual inspections of the jail, have repeatedly recommended that better facilities be provided. No action, however, has been taken by County Commissioners.

Concerning Wednesday visiting days in preference to Sundays, Sheriff Tate asserted that formerly both Sunday and Wednesday had been designated as visiting days for relatives or

MOUNT ETNA DEVASTATION CONTINUES; ROAD IS BLOCKED

CATANIA, SICILY, Nov. 14.—Mount Etna continued to threaten the countryside today as the lava flow, which already has caused millions of dollars damage, swept on towards the sea.

The central branch of the main stream, which had been quiet since Friday, resumed activity yesterday proceeding at a rate of three meters an hour.

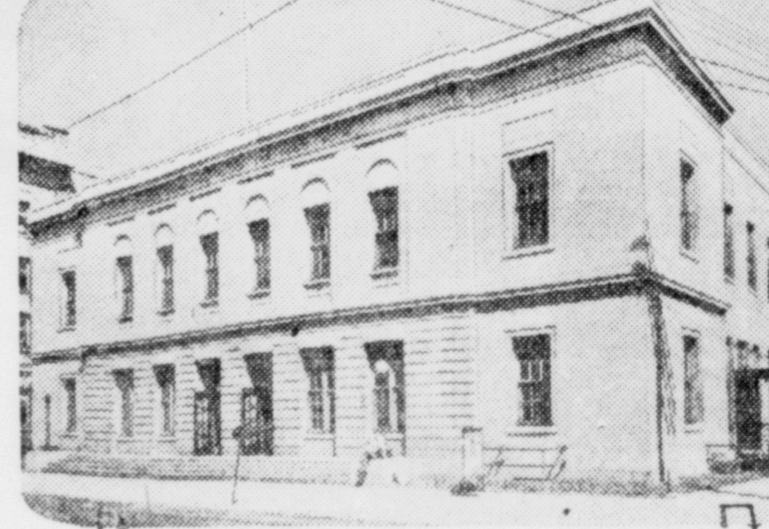

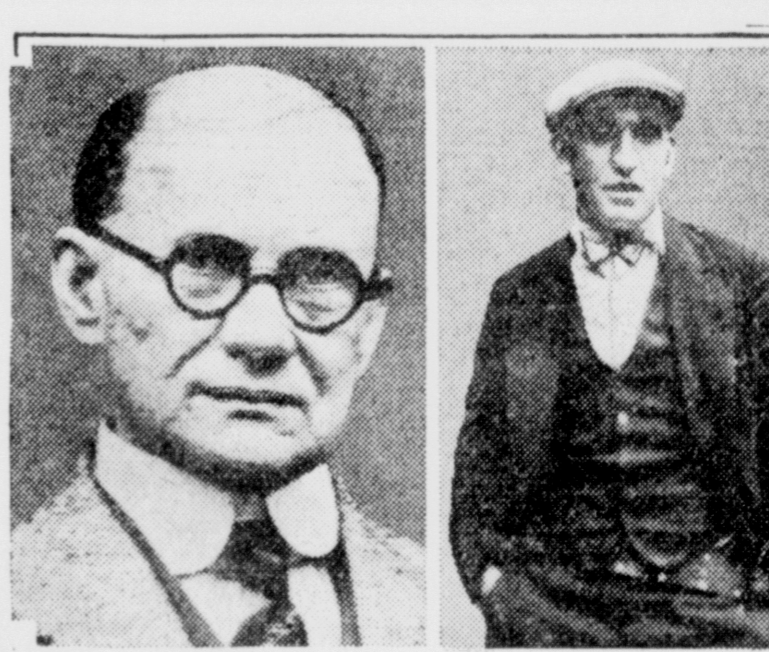

The advance engulfed the second highway between Messina and Catania and caused further traffic tieups. Motor lorries and freight carriers had been using this road but henceforth all traffic now must be by sea between the two cities.

RESCUE SHIPS RECOVER 210; REPORT 8 DEAD

Search Continues; Tales Of Heroism Told By Rescued

The toll of the Vestris, which sank Monday, stood today at:

Known to be dead, 8.

Rescued, 210.

Still unaccounted for, 108.

Of those accounted for, the battleship Wyoming had eight rescued; the S. S. Berlin brought twenty-three to New York; the S. S. American shipper brought 125 to New York; the French tanker Myriam was bringing fifty-four to New York; the cutter Manning had three bodies; the coast guard destroyer Davis had four bodies; and an unannounced cutter had one body.

NEW YORK, Nov. 14.—A story of tragedy and heroism was brought here today by the first survivors from the lost steamer Vestris to reach land.

The North German Lloyd steamer Berlin brought in five passengers and eighteen members of the crew of the Vestris, which she had picked up in a lifeboat near the spot where the Lampert and Holt liner went down Monday about 240 miles off the Virginia capes.

How two lifeboats filled with women and children broke from their davits while being lowered, throwing their screaming freight into the sea; how a negro boat-swain's mate swam to a lifeboat that broke loose and rescued a group of survivors; and how this boat fought for hours with the stormy sea until rescued were told by those aboard the Berlin.

The most moving tale of heroism was how Michael J. O'Loughlin, chief radio operator of the Vestris, stuck to his post until the ship went down, sending out his calls through the air that brought rescue ships speeding from all sides. It was believed O'Loughlin went down with the ship.

Could hear the radio spluttering up to the time I jumped into the water," said James A. Adams, the first engineer, one of those rescued by the Berlin.

The story revealed why it was that so many of the women and children aboard the Vestris were lost. True to the traditions of the sea, the women and children were loaded into the boats first, and it was the first two boats that capsized.

Hours of anxiety and suffering among the 325 passengers and crew aboard the Vestris, from the time the liner first began to list in a heavy sea on Sunday night, until the survivors were picked up on Tuesday morning, were described by those aboard the Berlin.

The mystery of why the Vestris sank was not cleared up. Some thought it might have been due to the shifting of cargo. One survivor, O. L. Maxey, of Richmond, Va., believed a bulkhead broke after the ship began to leak, and prevented efforts to pump her out of water.

Those in the lifeboats picked up by the Berlin were adrift for fourteen hours, without food except water and crackers, and suffering from cold. The lifeboats, survivors said, had no rudder, and they were unable to help themselves much beyond keeping the lifeboats headed into the waves, waiting for a rescue ship.

Some of them swam alongside the sinking Vestris for nearly half an hour before they got aboard the lifeboat.

The boat picked up by the Berlin was the third launched from the Vestris. The first two were those that capsized on being lowered.

The third broke away while still empty.

NEW YORK, Nov. 14.—The S. S. Voltaire radioed to the Radio Marine Corporation at 6:30 a. m. today:

"Makeshift raft sent out from Vestris still missing, and probably broken up. We are now crossing track of disaster. Not yet seen anything around except two rescuers."

"Looks as if captain and senior radio operator of Vestris went down with ship."

LONDON, Nov. 14.—The hull of the S. S. Vestris, which sank off the Virginia Capes, was insured for $275,000, making a conservative estimate of the London market's loss of $1,000,000 according to the Daily Telegraph's marine insurance expert.

TO ABANDON LINE

COLUMBUS, O., Nov. 14.—The public utilities commission has authorized the Southern Ohio Public Service Company to abandon its interurban line between Columbus and Zanesville. Service between Columbus and Newark will be discontinued on January 15. The abandonment was consented to when the company showed it has lost $80,000 through unprofitable operations.

"ONE FRIGHTFUL MINUTE," VESTRIS SURVIVOR SAYS

By P. SCHUCH
Chief Radio Operator S. S. Berlin
(Copyright 1928 By United Press)

ABOARD THE S. S. BERLIN, Nov. 14.—There was one frightful minute, after a morning of greatest terror, and then the S. S. Vestris sank under a heavy sea, Henry Schultz, one of the survivors said today.

Schultz, a third class passenger, was among the twenty-two survivors picked up by the Berlin.

There had been a bit of advance warning. The big South American liner had listed all the way out of New York and as early as 8 a. m.

Monday the passengers were ordered on the upper decks, Schultz said.

Everyone wore life belts. The seas broke high. There was imminent danger.

And then came the disaster, the mad rush for life boats—the sinking of one or two being attributed to overcrowding—and finally the rescue. Schultz still was dazed by the shock of that sea tragedy today as he told the story for the United Press.

"The Vestris had a little starboard list when she left on Sunday," Schultz said.

"Though weather caused more and more list Monday. Early the engines were stopped and about 8 a. m. the women and children were ordered to the upper decks. The ship was drifting and the crew threw the cargo overboard, but this proved a useless act.

"There was no warm coffee and no warm breakfast. We had only bread and cheese. The third class dining room at noon was under water.

"The crew and the officers, after the 'to life boats' signal had been given, assisted in clearing the boats but three boats of the port side sank with the Vestris.

"The end of the disaster came very quickly while the passengers tried to get into the boats, the ship laid over on its starboard side and sank within one minute without any explosion."

Schultz and two negroes saw the sinking was imminent and they leaped into the water. They succeeded in swimming to life boat No. 13, which from some cause had become unattached from the big liner. They took nineteen other persons aboard their life boat, and said they saw no women swimming in the billowing sea.

"The big loss of life was due to the sinking of three life boats with the Vestris," Schultz said.

"The end of the disaster came

COMMUNITY CHEST PLANS ENDORSED BY DIRECTORATE

All action taken and progress made thus far in preparations for Xenia's first Community Chest drive November 20 to 27, inclusive, was endorsed by the cliest board of directors at a meeting in the commiss on chamber at City Hall Tuesday morning.

For the purpose of forming a permanent Community Chest organization in Xenia the directors appointed a committee to draft by-laws for the association.

Inaugurating widespread publicity that will be given the coming campaign in the short space of time remaining before the drive opens, brief talks boosting the chest were given for the first time in local theaters Monday night. Slides will be thrown on the screen and the talks continued this week.

Pamphlets are also expected to be printed summarizing the purpose of the drive and copies will be distributed to every home in the city.

CHARLES MILLER IS DEAD IN JAMESTOWN

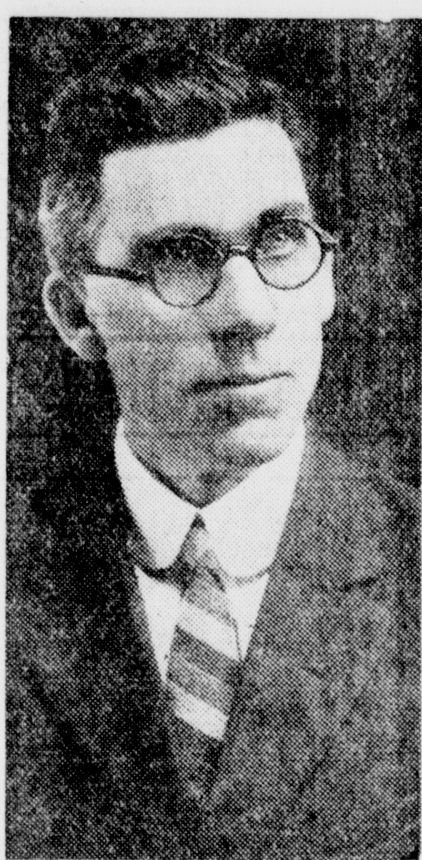

Charles Miller, 77, died at the home of his son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Burr, Jamestown, at 11:45 o'clock Tuesday morning. Death was caused by a complication of ailments and culminated two years of ill health.

Mr. Miller, who became 77 years of age last October, was a resident of Hoversville for forty years and had made his home with Mr. and Mrs. Burr for the last seven years. His wife preceded him in death fourteen years ago.

Surviving him are four children, Mrs. Frank Burr, Mrs. Ossie Marshall and Lawrence Miller, all of Jamestown; Howard Miller, Hoversville, and nine grandchildren and three great grandchildren.

Funeral services will be held at 2 o'clock Friday afternoon at the residence of Mr. and Mrs. Burr in charge of the Rev. L. D. Vesey. Interment will be made in the Jamestown Cemetery.

FAITH'S EXPLOITS SERMON SUBJECT; MUSIC IS FEATURE

REV. CAMPBELL

Evangelistic meetings at the First Baptist Church are growing in interest and increasing numbers each evening. The service of song under the direction of the Rev. A. W. Campbell is an attractive feature of the meetings. The congregational singing of the popular gospel hymns is enthusiastic.

The Rev. S. A. Stulce, Cincinnati, preaches with great power. In the pulpit to his sermon Tuesday evening Dr. Stulce took occasion to express his appreciation of the Evening Gazette in giving publicity to the meetings.

The topic of the sermon was "Faith's Exploits" in which he said: "The eleventh chapter of Hebrews is God's Hall of Fame where the portraits of men made heroic by faith are hung. Here we find Abraham, the friend of God, the father of a great nation; Moses, who by faith chose the poverty and sufferings of a servant of God rather than enjoy the pleasures of sin for a season; Noah, the ship builder, the man with a working faith; Gideon, the Commander-in-chief of an army, who through faith won a great victory—these were among the heroes of faith. Many others' pictures adorn these walls, each with its story of achievement."

"We are told of miracles performed, kingdoms subdued, the mouths of lions stopped, the violence of fire quenched, all done by faith. Faith is the working principle not only of the spiritual, but also of the political and commercial world. Ninety per cent of all commercial enterprises are carried on by faith. The greatest achievements in history are achievements of faith. Faith links the weakness of man to the power of God. It is the key to God's dynamo and the construction through which power is transmitted to man. It is a conquering grace giving courage in the face of danger, wisdom in time of bewilderment and strength in the hour of weakness. Faith pleases God and gives us victory.

Dr. Stulce will preach at 7:45 Wednesday evening on the topic "Holding the Rope."

NEW BURLINGTON

CLEVELAND, OHIO

TO THE half-million men and women who have received new Fords in the last eleven months, there is no need to dwell on the performance of the car.

You have tested its speed on the open road. In traffic you have noted its quick acceleration and the safety of its brakes. You know how it climbs the hills. On long trips and over rough stretches you have come to appreciate its easy-riding comfort. Continuous driving has proved its economy of operation and low cost of upkeep.

This is an invitation to you to take full advantage of the service facilities of the Ford dealer organization so that you may continue to enjoy many thousands of miles of carefree, economical motoring.

The point is this. You have a great car in the new Ford. It is simple in design, constructed of the best materials and machined with unusual accuracy. It is so well-made, in fact, that it requires surprisingly little attention. Yet that doesn't mean it should be neglected. Like every other fine piece of machinery, it will serve you better and longer if given proper care.

One of the best ways to do this is to take your car to the Ford dealer every 500 miles for oiling and greasing and a checking-up of the little things that have such a great bearing on long life and continuously good performance.

Such an inspection may mean a great deal to your car. To you it means thousands upon thousands of miles of motoring without a care—without ever lifting the hood.

Ford dealers everywhere have been specially trained and equipped to service the new Ford. You will find them prompt and reliable in their work, fair in their charges, and sincerely eager to help you get the greatest possible use from your car for the longest period at a minimum of trouble and expense. That is the true meaning of Ford Service.

COMMUNITY CHEST PLANS ENDORSED BY DIRECTORATE

All action taken and progress made thus far in preparations for Xenia's first Community Chest drive November 20 to 27, inclusive, was endorsed by the board of directors at a meeting in the commission chamber at City Hall Tuesday morning.

For the purpose of forming a permanent Community Chest organization in Xenia the directors appointed a committee to draft by-laws for the association.

Inaugurating widespread publicity that will be given the coming campaign in the short space of time remaining before the drive opens, brief talks boosting the chest were given for the first time in local theaters Monday night. Slides will be thrown on the screen and the talks continued this week.

Pamphlets are also expected to be printed summarizing the purpose of the drive and copies will be distributed to every home in the city.

CHARLES MILLER IS DEAD IN JAMESTOWN

Charles Miller, 77, died at the home of his son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Burr, Jamestown, at 11:45 o'clock Tuesday morning. Death was caused by a complication of ailments and culminated two years of ill health.

Mr. Miller, who became 77 years of age last October, was a resident of Bowersville for forty years and had made his home with Mr. and Mrs. Burr for the last seven years. His wife preceded him in death fourteen years ago.

Surviving him are four children, Mrs. Frank Burr, Mrs. Ossie Marshall and Lawrence Miller, all of Jamestown; Howard Miller, Bowersville, and nine grandchildren and three great grandchildren.

Funeral services will be held at 2 o'clock Friday afternoon at the residence of Mr. and Mrs. Burr in charge of the Rev. L. D. Vesey. Interment will be made in the Jamestown Cemetery.

FAITH'S EXPLOITS SERMON SUBJECT; MUSIC IS FEATURE

Evangelistic meetings at the First Baptist Church are growing in interest and increasing numbers each evening. The service of song under the direction of the Rev. A. W. Campbell is an attractive feature of the meetings. The congregational singing of the popular gospel hymns is enthusiastic.

The Rev. S. A. Stulce, Cincinnati, preaches with great power. In the pulpit to his sermon Tuesday evening Dr. Stulce took occasion to express his appreciation of the Evening Gazette in giving publicity to the meetings.

The topic of the sermon was "Faith's Exploits" in which he said: "The eleventh chapter of Hebrews is God's Hall of Fame where the portraits of men made heroic by faith are hung. Here we find Abraham, the friend of God, the father of a great nation. Moses, who by faith chose the poverty and sufferings of a servant of God rather than enjoy the pleasures of sin for a season; Noah, the ship builder, the man with a working faith; Gideon, the commander-in-chief of an army, who through faith won a great victory—these were among the heroes of faith. Many others' pictures adorn these walls, each with its story of achievement.

"We are told of miracles performed, kingdoms subdued, the mouths of lions stopped, the violence of fire quenched, all done by faith. Faith is the working principle not only of the spiritual, but also of the political and commercial world. Ninety per cent of all commercial enterprises are carried on by faith. CENTRAL H. P. T. A. PLANS "CHAIN DINNER"

The social committee of Central H. P. T. A., met with Chairman Mrs. P. C. Banker at her home Tuesday evening and completed plans for the covered "chain dinner" to be given in honor of the teachers of Central High School, next Monday, November 19 at 6:30. The dinner will be served in the cafeteria and those who attend are asked to bring, besides a covered dish, their own silver and china. The president, Miss Faye Cavanaugh, is especially urging the parents of the children who live in the country to attend the meeting. A splendid program is being planned and will be given in the auditorium, immediately after dinner. Mr. William Miller, music instructor of the Xenia Schools will be in charge. Mrs. Charles Adair will introduce the teachers. The detailed program will be announced later.

The "chain dinner" is a new feature for the society. Every member calls up two people and these two people phone two more and so on until all the members are called and then they all meet.

Mrs. Banker's committee is composed of: Mrs. Roy Spahr, Mrs. Emil Lehman, Mrs. Roy Hayward, Mrs. C. V. Patterson, and Mrs. Howard Lighthiser.

ELECTION VICTORY TO BE CELEBRATED.

An "Election Victory Institute" will be held by the Greene County W. G. T. U., at the First Baptist Church, Friday, November 17. Mrs. J. Q. Jordan, Wilmington and Mrs. H. C. Pressinger, Dayton, state directors of soldiers' and sailors' work, will be the principal speakers.

The morning session will open with the appointment of committees and a review of the last county executive meeting. Reports will be heard of the "red and blue" contest, followed by the introduction of the various local union presidents.

Mrs. Jordan will talk in the morning on "Child Welfare". After the noonday prayer, luncheon will be served. Mrs. Russell Burkett will open the afternoon meeting at 1:15 with devotions. Reports will be made of the state convention and an address by the Rev. J. R. Lunsford, pastor of the Baptist Church, will follow. Mrs. Pressinger's lecture will close the program.

C. L. OF C. HONORS

MRS. NORKKAUER TUESDAY
Mrs. Fred Norkauer graciously received members of the Catholic Ladies of Columbia at her home on S. West St., Tuesday evening. The affair was arranged by the society in honor of Mrs. Norkauer's daughter and she served as hostess.

Twenty-eight guests were received and bridge and five hundred were in play during the evening. Score prizes were awarded and the games were followed by amusing contests.

A two-course luncheon was served later. Mrs. Norkauer received a handsome gift from the society.

Mrs. R. J. Kelly and Mrs. Mary M. Meredith are leaving Sunday night for Kansas City, Mo., to join Mrs. William M. Wilson, who has been visiting there. They will leave in two days for San Francisco where they will be joined by Mrs. W. G. Dice of Toledo, and the four will sail November 23 for Honolulu to spend an indefinite time.

Inspection of officers and initiation will take place at the meeting of Phoenix Rebekah Lodge, Thursday evening at 7:30 o'clock.

PRESBYTERIAN MEN'S DINNER SUCCESSFUL

The men's dinner in honor of Dr. Lucius E. Smith Tuesday evening at the Presbyterian Church was a success from the standpoint of numbers and interest. Dr. C. L. Plymate, Dayton and Dr. Alfred Fowler, of Philadelphia, were guests.

Nearly one hundred men sat down to a chicken dinner prepared by the women of the church. After dinner a number of guests were introduced with Mr. F. L. Smith, president. Dr. Smith was introduced and passed a number of photographs which depicted some of the special surgical work done by physicians in Africa. He vividly described his experiences of seven years service in Africa.

This is the first of a series of men's meetings to be held during the winter months at the Presbyterian Church.

GLEANNERS' CLASS IS ENTERTAINING MONDAY
Mrs. Charles McDaniel won the first prize, for the best costume, when the Gleaners' Class, First M. E. Church, was received at the home of Mrs. Harry Jay, S. Detroit St., Monday evening.

Thirty-five members attended the masque party and much merriment was enjoyed. After the members unmasked, the business meeting was held and plans laid for the Christmas party.

Two contests were provided by the hostesses and Mrs. Roy Buckles and Mrs. Cole won the prizes.

A dainty salad course was served.

THREE TOPICS ON W. C. PROGRAM

"Allegory in Literature of the Middle Ages" and "University of Paris and the Sorbonne" were the two interesting titles of the papers presented to the Junior Woman's Club at the home of Mrs. Harry D. Smith, Tuesday afternoon.

Mrs. H. H. Kingsbury handled the first paper in a capable manner and Mrs. W. Crawford Craig discussed the second topic with ease.

Mrs. C. E. Fisher took "Books of the Day" the opening ten minute discussion and several attractive releases were used as the subject.

Mr. and Mrs. Leon Reed, Yellow Springs, are the parents of a daughter, born at McClellan Hospital, this city, Friday night, Mrs. Reed was before marriage, Miss Hazel Bond, this city.

Grace Bootes, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. S. S. Bootes Route Three, Xenia, underwent a tonsil and adenoid operation in this city Wednesday morning.

A special meeting of Xenia Lodge, No. 49, F. and A. M., will be held Friday night, November 16 at 7 o'clock. Work is scheduled in the Master's degree, after which a banquet will be held.

Mrs. Basil Hatfield (Elouise Manor) of Washington, C. H. is spending a few days with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Harry Manor, W. Second St.

The Woman's Auxiliary of the First Baptist Church will meet at the church at 2 p. m. Thursday. After the business session, a comfort will be knotted. Those not caring to work on the comfort may bring fancy work to the meeting.

The Ruth Guild of the Presbyterian Church will be in charge of the prayer meeting Wednesday night at 7:30 o'clock, under the leadership of Mrs. A. V. Perill, president, and others. A special program has been planned, of unusual interest in the celebration of National Missions Month, which is a nation-wide activity the Presbyterian Church, U. S. A.

The condition of Dr. F. W. Ogan, Jamestown, who has been seriously ill three weeks, shows slight improvement.

Frederick Baxley, little son of Mr. and Mrs. William Baxley, Washington St., is recovering satisfactorily from severe burns on his back, received when his clothing ignited from a gas stove Sunday.

Second U. P. choir will meet for rehearsal at the church Thursday evening at 8 o'clock. All who will have a part in the Christmas music will be expected to attend.

Xenia Grange will meet Friday evening, November 16, at the K. of P. Hall. Candidates will be given the first and second degrees. Through the courtesy of Mr. Harry Hagler, a radio will be installed and during the lecture hour, members will listen to the address of President Calvin Coolidge, broadcast from the meeting of the national grange at Washington, D. C. A full attendance is desired.

Mrs. William Fletcher and Mr. and Mrs. Paul Jones, of Cincinnati Ave., are touring through the south and are now visiting friends in Wauchula, Fla. They will also visit Miss Nelle Fletcher at West Palm Beach and will stop at various other points on the motor trip. Mr. and Mrs. Jones expect to remain in Florida during the winter but Mrs. Fletcher will return in about a month.

The third and final reading of the amendment to the by-laws will be offered Friday night, Nov. 16, at the meeting of Xenia Aerie of Eagles. This amendment is to change the meeting night from Friday to Thursday night.

MRS. ALICE FOOTE MAC DOUGALL GIVES PRAISE TO ANTIOCH

When the best known business woman in America, Mrs. Alice Foote MacDougall, spoke Tuesday in Springfield, Mass., before the High School of Commerce there, she said that Antioch College, Yellow Springs, O., is one of the few educational institutions making an intelligent effort to introduce young people to business in a practical way. Mrs. MacDougall's subject was "School in Relation to Life."

"Antioch College in Ohio," said Mrs. MacDougall, "is one of the few institutions making an intelligent effort to introduce their students to life and business in a practical way. It can not be done by telling young people about business. It must be done by the 'case method' or experience, and this Antioch employs. As a business woman I know how much young people are harmed by too much theory and too little practice. It makes the hardships of business unnecessarily great for them if they have been taught more about the 'opportunities' than about the actual conditions of business life."

Mrs. MacDougall is almost equally well known as a writer and lecturer as she is as a pioneer in business. Her talk at Springfield was part of a New England lecture tour.

FOUR NEW FEDERAL PRISONERS SERVE TIME IN JAIL HERE

Population of the Greene County Jail was increased to twenty-three, or twelve below its capacity, with the arrival Tuesday night of four federal prisoners, committed to the local jail from United States District Court at Dayton.

The quartet was sentenced for violation of the national prohibition act after being indicted by the federal grand jury. Those received were: David A. Dillard, sentenced to serve forty days; Clay McDermott, colored, also committed for forty days; Paul Barton, fined $350 and sentenced to three months, and Kenneth Fowler, sentenced to three months and fined $350.

Another federal prisoner, William F. Hartbag, sentenced from the federal court at Cincinnati to serve three months and pay a $200 fine for a liquor act violation, was received at the Xenia jail October 25.

The jail had already contained one federal prisoner and the recent arrivals increased the number of federal prisoners to six.

DEATH CLAIMS MISS COSMELIA HIRST, 94

Miss Cosmelia Hirst, 94, the oldest surviving graduate of Antioch College, Yellow Springs, died at her home in that place, Wednesday morning at 10 o'clock. Death was due to infirmities of age.

Miss Hirst was born in London County, Va., April 13, 1834. She came to Yellow Springs in 1854 and entered Antioch College in the second year of Horace Mann's presidency.

Surviving are three nieces and one nephew, including Mrs. R. O. Weid, this city, wife of the Greene County auditor; Mrs. John Groves and Miss Clara Hirst, Concord, N. H.

Funeral arrangements have not been completed.

SCIENCE PUTS ONE OVER ON BORER

A hybrid corn plant, obtained by crossing an American corn with a Mexican maize, said to be immune to the corn borer, a pest which has done millions of dollars damage to crops in the corn belt, is believed to be a possible solution to the corn borer problem. Above, left, is shown the Mexican maize, while above, right, is shown the new hybrid corn plant. Below are some of the 300 scientists and agriculturists who attended a conference of the International Corn Borer association at Toledo, O., and studied the new plant.

A DOCTOR'S ADVICE: GO LIGHT ON LAXATIVES!

Everyone needs a laxative AT TIMES. But there's no need for making it a HABIT. If you have the habit, you can be rid of it in thirty days. Or less! And this is how:

The next time you go to take any strong cathartic—don't. Instead, take a little Cascara. That's not a vicious drug, but the bark of a tree. The laxative made with cascara couldn't harm a child. It is, in fact, the one cathartic many physicians will approve for children. Gentle as it is, cascaring is just as thorough in cleansing the colon as the more powerful purges that actually sap a person's strength.

Proof that there's no habit from cascara begins the very day after taking. Instead of being clogged worse than ever, the bowels are more inclined to move OF THEIR OWN ACCORD. You may have to take cascara several times to establish regularity. But the times you need this gentle stimulus grow further apart. And you NEVER find you must increase the amount.

Cascara's ideal form is the candy Cascaret that pleases any palate, and you'll find them at the first drugstore you ask.

TO INDICT SLAYER ON MURDER CHARGE

CLEVELAND, Nov. 14.—Plans were being laid today for indictment on a charge of first degree murder of James Nevins, lake sailor who clubbed to death a cell mate in County Jail here early yesterday.

County authorities were awaiting official permission from the United States attorney general's office to take custody of Nevins, a federal prisoner, before presenting the case to the grand jury.

At the same time federal authorities believed they had discovered a motive for the murder. The victim was Don Prentiss, former sales manager of the Olds Motor Co., Lansing, Mich., who was Nevins' cell mate.

Nip Head Colds

Head colds make you miserable and often develop into serious conditions. Musterole Laxative Cold Tablets give prompt relief without griping or buzzing in the head. Chocolate-coated—easy to take. All drug stores or direct postpaid, 35c. Musterole Company, Cleveland, Ohio.

No More Gas In Stomach and Bowels

If you wish to be permanently relieved of gas in stomach and bowels, take Baileys' Gas Tablets, which are prepared especially for stomach gas and all the bad effects resulting from gas pressure.

That empty, gnawing feeling at the pit of the stomach will disappear; that anxious, nervous feeling with heart palpitation will vanish, and you will again be able to take a deep breath without discomfort.

That drowsy, sleepy feeling after dinner will be replaced by a desire for entertainment. Bloating will cease. Your limbs, arms and fingers will no longer feel cold and "go to sleep" because Baileys' Gas Tablets prevent gas from interfering with the circulation. CENTRAL H. P. T. A.

"CHAIN DINNER"

The social committee of Central H. P. T. A., met with Chairman Mrs. P. C. Banker at her home Tuesday evening and completed plans for the covered dish "chain dinner" to be given in honor of the teachers of Central High School, Monday, November 19 at 6:30. The dinner will be served in the cafeteria and those who attend are asked to bring, besides a covered dish, their own silver and china. The president, Miss Faye Cavanaugh is especially urging the parents of the children who live in the country to attend the meeting. A splendid program is being planned and will be given in the auditorium, immediately after dinner. Mr. William Miller, music instructor of the Xenia Schools will be in charge. Mrs. Charles Adair will introduce the teachers. The detailed program will be announced later.

The "chain dinner" is a new feature for the society. Every member calls up two people and these two people phone two more and all them plans for the dinner and urge them to attend.

Mrs. Banker's committee is composed of: Mrs. Roy Spahr, Mrs. Emil Elchman, Mrs. Roy Hayward, Mrs. C. V. Patterson, and Mrs. Howard Lighthizer.

ELECTION VICTORY TO BE CELEBRATED.

An "Election Victory Institute" will be held by the Greene County W. G. T. U., at the First Baptist Church, Friday, November 17, Mrs. W. Q. Jordan, Wilmington and Mrs. H. C. Pressinger, Dayton, state director of soldiers' and sailors' work, will be the principal speakers.

The morning session will open with the appointment of committees and a review of the last county executive meeting. Reports will be heard of the "red and blue" contest, followed by the introduction of the various local union presidents.

Mrs. Jordan will talk in the morning on "Child Welfare". After the noon prayer, luncheon will be served.

Mrs. Russell Banker will open the afternoon meeting at 1:15 with devotions. Reports will be made of the state convention and an address by the Rev. J. R. Lunsford, pastor of the Baptist Church, will follow. Mrs. Pressinger's lecture will close the program.

C. L. OF C. HONORS

MRS. NORKKAUER TUESDAY

Mrs. Fred Norkbauer graciously received members of the Catholic Ladies of Columbia at her home on S. West St., Tuesday evening. The affair was arranged by the society in honor of Mrs. Norkbauer a recent bride and she served as hostess.

Twenty-eight guests were received and bridge and five hundred were in play during the evening. Score prizes were awarded and the scores were followed by amusing contests.

A two-course luncheon was served later. Mrs. Norkbauer received a handsome gift from the society.

Mrs. R. J. Kelly and Mrs. Mary M. Meredith are leaving Sunday night for Kansas City, Mo., to join Mrs. William M. Wilson, who has been visiting there. They will leave in two days for San Francisco where they will be joined by Mrs. W. G. Dice of Toledo, and the four will sail November 23 for Honolulu to spend an indefinite time.

Inspection of officers and initiation will take place at the meeting of Phoenix Rebekah Lodge, Thursday evening at 7:30 o'clock.

Proposals!

A glance at her blonde loveliness tells better than words why this beautiful New York City girl has received such flattering proposals from kings of movie and stage land. She is Collette Francis, of 255 East 25th St., Brooklyn; now one of the charmers in the Broadway hit, "Rio Rita."

Miss Francis says: "Since I've been on the stage, so many people have asked me what I do to get the beautiful golden gleam and sparkle in my hair that I am beginning to think I'm really taking wonderful care of it. I really never thought much about it. What I do is so simple. Like so many of my girl friends here in New York, I just put a little Danderine on my brush each time I use it. That keeps my hair silky and gleaming, makes it easy to dress and holds it like I arrange it, for hours. My scalp was very dry and I had a lot of dandruff when I first started on it, but all that trouble stopped quickly. And Danderine keeps my hair so clean I don't need to shampoo half as often, now."

Danderine removes that oily film from your hair and gives it new life and lustre. It isn't oily and doesn't show. It gives tone and vigor to the scalp. The generous bottles are just 25c at any drug or toilet counter. A delicately fragrant necessity for the well-groomed girl. Adv.

PRESBYTERIAN MEN'S DINNER SUCCESSFUL

The men's dinner in honor of Dr. Lucius E. Smith Tuesday evening at the Presbyterian Church was a success from the standpoint of numbers and interest. Dr. C. L. Plymate, Dayton and Dr. Alfred Fowler, of Philadelphia, were guests.

Nearly one hundred men sat down to a chicken dinner prepared by the women of the church. After dinner a number of guests were introduced with Mr. F. L. Smith, presiding. Dr. Smith was introduced and passed a number of photographs which depicted some of the special surgical work done by physicians in Africa. He vividly described his experiences of seven years service in Africa.

This is the first of a series of men's meetings to be held during the winter months at the Presbyterian Church.

GLEANERS' CLASS IS ENTERTAINED MONDAY

Mrs. Charles McDaniell won the first prize for the best costume, when the Gleaners' Class, First M. E. Church, was received at the home of Mrs. Harry Jay, S. Detroit St., Monday evening.

Thirty-five members attended the masque party and much merriment was enjoyed. After the members unmasked, the business meeting was held and plans laid for the Christmas party.

Two contests were provided by the hostesses and Mrs. Roy Buckles and Mrs. Cole won the prizes.

A dainty salad course was served.

THREE TOPICS ON J. W. C. PROGRAM

"Allegory in Literature of the Middle Ages" and "University of Paris and the Sorbonne" were the two interesting titles of the papers presented to the Junior Woman's Club at the home of Mrs. Harry D. Smith, Tuesday afternoon.

Mrs. R. H. Kingsbury handled the first paper in a capable manner and Mrs. W. Crawford Craig discussed the second topic with ease.

Mrs. C. E. Fisher took "Books of the Day" the opening ten minute discussion and several attractive releases were used as the subject.

Mr. and Mrs. Leon Reed, Yellow Springs, are the parents of a daughter, born at McClellan Hospital, this city, Friday night, Mrs. Reed was before marriage, Miss Hazel Bond, this city.

Grace Bootes, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. S. S. Bootes Route Three, Xenia, underwent a tonsil and adenoid operation in this city Wednesday morning.

A special meeting of Xenia Lodge, No. 49, F. and A. M., will be held Friday night, November 16 at 7 o'clock. Work is scheduled in the Master's degree, after which a banquet will be held.

Mrs. Basil Hatfield (Elouise Manor) of Washington C. H., is spending a few days with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Harry Manor, W. Second St.

The Woman's Auxiliary of the First Baptist Church will meet at the church at 2 p. m. Thursday. After the business session, a comfort will be knotted. Those not caring to work on the comfort may bring fancy work to the meeting.

The Ruth Guild of the Presbyterian Church will be in charge of the prayer meeting Wednesday night at 7:30 o'clock, under the leadership of Mrs. A. V. Perrill, president, and others. A special program has been planned, of unusual interest in the celebration of National Missions Month, which is a nation-wide activity the Presbyterian Church, U. S. A.

The condition of Dr. F. W. Ogan, Jamestown, who has been seriously ill three weeks, shows slight improvement.

Frederick Baxley, little son of Mr. and Mrs. William Baxley, Washington St., is recovering satisfactorily from severe burns on his back, received when his clothing ignited from a gas stove Sunday.

Second U. P. choir will meet for rehearsal at the church Thursday evening at 8 o'clock. All who will have a part in the Christmas music will be expected to attend.

Xenia Grange will meet Friday evening, November 16, at the K. of P. Hall. Candidates will be given the first and second degrees. Through the courtesy of Mr. Harry Hagler, a radio will be installed and during the lecture hour, members will listen to the address of President Calvin Coolidge, broadcast from the meeting of the national grange at Washington, D. C. A full attendance is desired.

Mrs. William Fletcher and Mr. and Mrs. Paul Jones, of Cincinnati, are touring through the south and are now visiting friends in Wauchoha, Fla. They will also visit Miss Nellie Fletcher at West Palm Beach and will stop at various other points on the motor trip. Mr. and Mrs. Jones expect to remain in Florida during the winter but Mrs. Fletcher will return in about a month.

The third and final reading of the amendment to the by-laws will be offered Friday night, Nov. 16, at the meeting of Xenia Aerle of Eagles. This amendment is to change the meeting night from Friday to Thursday night.

Moon and earth eventually will hit, according to Oliver Lodge, English scientist, who points out what every physicist knows; namely that the force of the tides on the earth is gradually slowing down the earth's revolutions on its axis, and that the earth's gravity pull is also slowing down the revolution of the moon around the earth, and slowly, slowly, a few yards per year, pulling the moon toward the earth,—oceans and all life will gradually freeze solid, on one side of the earth,—that side which does not face the sun, and scorched on the other,—provided the sun's heat lasts that long.

In the course of the few billions of years, the earth will clapse into a ball of primeval iron and silicon, swinging sedately in concentric circles around a smouldering red sun, its surface sprinkled with the ruined cities of mankind and fragments of the disintegrated moon, the whole bathed in cold ghostly light from the Plieides and the neighboring nebulae of the Milky Way.

Meanwhile there remains plenty of time to keep the human race occupied, at least judging by the present limitations of its intelligence. A few billions of years should suffice for the poets to sing every possible kind of chanter to the delights of love and the mysteries of death, for every statesman to put into effect all possible forms of capitalism and socialism, for the inventors to contrive every imaginable sort of device for comfort in peace or for torture in warfare, for the rise, struggle to supremacy, decline and fall in turn, of every race,—white, yellow, black and brown.

So why, as the poet asks, should the spirit of mortal be proud,—or downcast either, for that matter.

NEW BIOGRAPHICAL METHOD

Robert H. Fuller, who died just before the publication of his new book, "Jubilee Jim—The Life of Colonel James Fisk, Jr.," created a new method of writing biography. Mr. Fuller created a fictional character, Rufus Phelps, Fisk's life long friends and publicity man, and then tells the amazing story of "Jubilee Jim" through the eyes of this "observer-relator." Thus the biographical novel is told in the first person.

Through this unusual method Mr. Fuller's new Macmillan book tells how Jim Fisk travelled with Van Amberg's Circus; made a fortune in contraband cotton during the Civil war; lost it in Wall street; joined Jay Gould in capturing the Erie railroad; fought Commodore Vanderbilt to a draw, exposed the Credit Mobilier; ruined Uncle Daniel Drew; ran the Fall River Line as admiral; organized and put through the gold panic and the disaster of Black Friday; brought the French Opera Bouffe to America; became Colonel of the Ninth Regiment; fell in love, and was murdered by his bosom friend, Edward S. Stokes. Truly an amazing life and told, by this new method, in a most readable manner.

YEARS OF LIFE

Dr. Martin, president of the American College of Surgeons, makes the prediction that by 1930 the average length of life in this country will be 65 years. There is much talk these days about lengthening the span of life. Perhaps we put too much emphasis on it. Intense cultivation of our years is vastly more important than merely adding them on. Many people engage in all sorts of processes for prolonging useless lives. Many live unnecessarily long. They would admit it themselves if they were quite frank. Nevertheless we all hope that Dr. Martin is right in his predictions.

A Texas physician introduces the case of a woman given up to die at 37 years of age. She thought that inasmuch as it was all settled she might as well stop worrying about it. She immediately set about having as good a time as she could—and lived to be 195.

Laughter clear worry out of the brain and as real exercise for the body. And if a thing can't be helped we might as well laugh as cry about it. And sometimes it is helped, after all.

The Diary

of a

New Yorker

By WALTER WINCHELL

NEW YORK—I have already given instructions to my attorneys. If ever I become a successful motion picture star with a tremendous following, including the Scandinavians, they are to take a sledge hammer of a substantial size, they are to back me against a brick wall and before I can say Jacob Rabinowitz they are to swing the hammer over their heads, resting the iron mallet on that part of me protruding from the collar. These instructions were given to my attorneys about four months ago, when I went to interview Douglas Fairbanks in Paris.

Douglas Fairbanks and Mary Pickford arrived in Paris with the newspaper hounds sniffing at their heels. Mary was indisposed. It was up to Fairbanks to amuse the newspaper men, to answer their questions, to pose for their pictures and to do the stunts concomitant with getting one's picture in the papers, creating good will and helping the sale of motion pictures.

To do this Doug had to beam all afternoon. Although it was raining, although he had not had lunch, although his trunk was not unpacked, although his wife was in another room nursing a headache, the film star had to beam—had to flash two even rows of white teeth. Here were the newspaper men asking him how it feels to get out of Hollywood, wasn't it simply grand to be in Paris, and the French equivalent for "What do you think of our sky line and how do you like our women?" Why, you old rascal, was Fairbanks' attitude, I'm enchanted with this country, I'm delighted to be here. Yes to you, sir. And yes to you, sir. And smile, smile, smile.

Then the picture boys got ready. Couldn't he possibly, possibly persuade Mary to pose with him? Of course she was ill, but couldn't she get up for one teeny, weeny second to pose for a picture? I would take just a second, because all photographers are always ready with their cameras, the boy who holds the flashlight never fails to click it at the proper moment, and the flashlight never, never backfires or fails to work. Douglas Fairbanks held his own ground. He just smiled and smiled and smiled.

And then the personality boys mooched forward to spread him with their questions. They don't ask the routine interrogations. "Pal, old pal, Douglas Fairbanks," "Did you get that sunburn in Hollywood? Yes? Well, how about the rest of your body?" So Fairbanks rolls his trousers to his thighs to show the inquisitive ones that he really is sunburned all over. It's the personality boys who tap his chest and feel his muscles and perform in such clinical fashion as to make me wonder why Fairbanks didn't extend his tongue and say "Ah!"

Then for two hours the actor has to write "With best wishes, Douglas Fairbanks." To my good friend, Douglas Fairbanks. "Pal, old pal, Douglas Fairbanks," "In memory of days at Heidelberg, Douglas Fairbanks," "Anonymously, Douglas Fairbanks."

Finally the last autograph is written and the visitors depart. The acrobatic star seems tired. He sees me, groans, but bravely steps forward to find out my wishes. I ask for a sheet of paper and some writing material. It is served. I dispatch a note to my attorney:

"If ever I become a successful motion picture star with a tremendous following, including the Scandinavians, you are to take a sledge hammer of a substantial size, you are to back me against a brick wall"—well, see the first paragraph.

Kellygrams

Time was when I thought an old, weather-beaten automobile, badly in need of repainting, indicated a lack of thrift on the part of the owner. The truth is that these lack-luster cars are owned not necessarily by the unthrifty but by philosophers. A freshly painted automobile is a kill-joy. You are constantly apprehensive lest the brand new coat of enamel is to receive its FIRST SCRATCH.

NO CHOICE

A "Tommy" lying in a hospital during the war, had beside him a watch of curious and foreign design. The attending doctor was interested.

"Where did your watch come from?" he asked.

"A German gave it to me," he answered.

A little piqued, the doctor inquired how the foe had come to convey this token of esteem and affection.

"E ad to," was the laconic reply.

In the Small Family

If the layer cake is just a little too large for the family to finish before it gets stale, it is a good idea to ice only half of it at a time, wrapping the other half in waxed paper and keeping it in an airtight box. Then, when the first half is eaten, when the second half with an entirely different sort of frosting, and it will be as good as a new cake.

NOT AS SOLID AS IT WAS CRACKED UP TO BE!

Behind the Scenes in Washington

By CHARLES P. STEWART

WASHINGTON—Did President Coolidge hope strenuously for a Hoover victory?

It may sound like a blasphemous question.

Nevertheless, it was asked a good many times, as election day drew closer and closer. Moreover, a negative answer was pretty frequently guessed at.

True, the president did finally come through with an endorsement of the Hoover candidacy, but he was mighty late in the campaign about it. It failed, too, to convince all the skeptics.

The fact is, the circumstances of the G. O. P. standard bearer's last call at the White House, just before he left for California, created a first-class sensation in Washington.

Up to that juncture not a peep from Mr. Coolidge had indicated that he, Coolidge, knew who was nominated in June at Kansas City.

"But row," said everybody, "he'll give Hoover a grand send-off."

A microphone had been set up in front of the executive mansion for Calvin to make his speech into, and to transmit Mr. Hoover's response to waiting millions. Everything was fixed—the Republican campaign managers were just that certain that an occasion had arrived when the president couldn't get out of giving a big boost to the party's choice as his successor.

History informs us what followed.

President Coolidge faced the "mike," braced himself, and launched this stirring oration:

"Good-bye, Mr. Hoover. I wish you a pleasant trip to California and a safe return. Good-bye." The anti-climax was something terrible.

How to Achieve Beauty

By MME. HELENA RUBINSTEIN

Exercise For Hips,

Diaphragm and Abdomen

The woman who is harassed by the knowledge that her hips are too large has my deepest sympathy. I know full well how unpleasantly and persistently her mirror announces her affliction, and I know, too, that no matter how the fashions change, nor how they may incline toward the full and matronly figure, there never will be a time when large hips will be the approving smile of Dame Fashion. In the exercises I am giving for the reduction of the hips, let me advise you to do them briskly and energetically until you are quite fatigued.

I stand erect, hands on hips, heels together. Slide the right foot out in front, toe pointed and leg muscles well stretched. Describe a wide circle on the floor with the tip of the toe moving sideways, backward and returning to the starting position. Rotate the leg from the hip. Bend the knee slightly on the backward circling movement. Repeat five to ten times on each foot each day.

Stand erect, hands on hips, one foot in advance of the other, toe pointing outward. Swing the body forward and down, letting the arms hang relaxed to the floor. Slowly raise the body and arms and bend back as far as possible, flexing the knees a little and keeping muscles relaxed. Slowly rise to erect position, rise on toes and stretch upward as far as possible, contracting the abdominal muscles and raising chest as you inhale. Lower heels and arms. Do not overdo this exercise, particularly in the beginning. Three or four times first is quite enough. Then increase until you can manage ten or twelve movements without excessive fatigue.

Lie down on your back on an exercise mat or on a small rug. Raise both legs together, knee stiff. Lower them slowly. Repeat ten times.

And last, don't forget the value of rolling. There isn't any exercise much better to reduce hips and abdomen.

Now let us get to the question of diaphragm reduction. A "spare tire," as one young woman designates this ugly roll of fat just under the bust, is simply disastrous to the good looks of your corsets are often to blame for the development of this flabby roll of fat. Poor posture is also a primary cause of a large and awkward diaphragm. The first remedy is to correct your posture habits. Sit

Breaded Veal Cutlets
Buttered Rice
Vitamin Salad
Steamed Fruit Pudding Coffee

Serve rice occasionally instead of potatoes. Just one cup of rice on to boil briskly in one quart of salted water, first washing it, of course. Let it boil until all the water has been absorbed. Shake, but do not stir, as you will break the grains if you do. Pile in vegetable dish with a good sized lump (or several lumps) of butter on top.

Today's Recipes

Vitamin Salad—Get a small head of cabbage and a small head of lettuce. Cut thin slices from the cabbage and let them soak in French dressing for half an hour. Grate one large carrot and flavor it with lemon juice and a quarter teaspoon salt; grate an onion at time of serving. Arrange a slice of lettuce cut crosswise of the head on individual salad plates; over these place the cabbage slices, pour over the French dressing, sprinkle with grated onion, then grated carrot, then with minced parsley.

Steamed Fruit Pudding—Sift together one and two-thirds cups flour, one-half teaspoon soda, one-fourth teaspoon salt, one of cinnamon and cloves, one-half teaspoon nutmeg or mace. Add three tablespoons melted butter, one-half cup sweet milk and one-half cup molasses. Finally add either half a pound of raisins or dates, cut fine; a little lemon peel, if you like. Turn into buttered molds and steam for one hour. Serve with hard sauce or lemon sauce.

Suggestions

Liver Pasties

Make a good short pie crust, roll thin and cut into six-inch squares. Boil a pound of calf's liver until tender. Drain and chop it fine. Add two tablespoons butter, pepper, salt, a cup of dry apple sauce, juice of an onion, a teaspoon sugar, two tablespoons chopped pecan nuts and a tablespoon very dry crumbs. Put a large spoonful into each pastry square, add a little lump of butter, fold over the crust and pinch in the ends. Bick the top with a steel fork and bake on a buttered dish until the crust is done. Serve hot with cream or tomato sauce, or cold without sauce.

upright at all times and on all occasions.

The back crouch stroke in swimming is a very good form of exercise. Here is a good exercise to wear away the flabby flesh at diaphragm and abdomen:

Lie on your back, hands clasped firmly at the base of your neck, elbows sticking out on either side. Raise your legs together in a swift, swing movement until little by little you can get them further back over your head. In time, you will be able to touch the floor behind your head with the tips of your toes. Lower slowly. Don't go into this too vigorously. Your back muscles are a varied and important group—much too important to subject to a possibility of back strain.

Diet and Health

EAT BALANCED FOOD AND BE YOUNG AT SEVENTY ODD

Dancing for Health.

"I am not overweight, but being a dancer, I have to watch. I am one of those mortals who cannot eat a chocolate without it sticking out on me. I eat only fresh fruit, fresh milk, and meat once a day, then in fried foods, heavy desserts, etc."

"There is not a day that passes without my stretching and limbering exercises. A number of them seem similar to yours, and we call them 'reconditioning exercises,' and I give them to all my pupils. They distribute the flesh evenly and properly, making the fat ones thin and the thin ones fat. They are normalizing, in other words. A number of my pupils have benefited by the combined efforts of diet and exercise."

"We all have a dread of fat in our family, even did before it was fashionable to be slender. My mother cooks as many non-fattening foods as she can locate in the markets, and we are the healthiest family living. Dad, mother and auntie are in the 70's, and the ladies look like young girls and have much pep. The lone auntie is one of the country's oldest dancing teachers, internationally known, now in Europe lecturing on the dance. She believes in keeping fit."

"Thank you, L. for your interesting and instructive letter. Ballet and acrobatic dancing—with the exercises that go with them—are certainly superlative modes of exercises and I believe should be taught in some form to all children."

"I'm going to give you a resume of an article on Ballet Dancing, by Dr. Philip Lewin, an orthopedic surgeon in the March, 1927, number of Hygiea. As an orthopedic surgeon, he naturally writes from a standpoint of health and the correction of deformities. While the doctor was writing for girls, acrobatic dancing is equally good for boys and adults—naturally. In all cases if there is no contra-indication to active exercise.

"Through ballet dancing the girl may develop and improve her concentration, poise, sense of balance, quickness and accuracy of thinking, co-ordination of mind, muscle and body, a sense of rhythm both of music and of movement. Added to these mental health benefits is the important factor of enjoyment."

"Physical health benefits are found in improved circulation and digestion and in development of muscle (of both the heart and the skeleton). Ligament, tendon and bony skeleton."

"Improvement in body symmetry, carriage, posture and physical attitude is great. Children who are overweight are benefited by the physical activity of ballet dancing, for it has a tendency to prevent the deposition of fat. The thin child is improved by the general stimulation of body functions, especially circulatory, muscular and digestive functions."

"Ballet dancing is the foundation of all branches of dancing. Through ballet work the muscles may be properly developed and the balance and poise necessary in any kind of dancing is obtained."

"Acrobatics may be a valuable auxiliary to ballet dancing. It must be taught by a specially trained instructor, who must give every child individual attention in order to prevent injury. Back-bending stunts must not be indulged in too strenuously or too constantly. Children with thyroid gland disturbances, acrobatics and times ballet dancing are to be avoided."

LOVERS PICTURE WEDDED BLISS: MARRIAGE OFT REVERSE OF THIS

What a lottery is life! How different is the picture each lover carries in his and her heart of the loved one to the reality as revealed through marriage. The great adventure—marriage—looks so fair. How often it is the reverse. That is what makes mothers cry at weddings. The youngsters are so sweet and so happy—so sure that THEIR lives are to be so blessed. And the parents know that in the happiest union there will be many heartaches as the two young lives adjust themselves. We want our children to marry. It is the normal life and the happiest. But if we only could spare them the suffering that they will have to endure. However, it wouldn't be best, I suppose, even if we could save them the disappointments. They grow through these as much as through the joy that just as surely comes to the union of two souls in most marriages. The woman who writes the following letter is expecting some of these disillusionings.

"Dear Mrs. Lee: I am writing for advice from you. I have a darling hubby to whom I have been married two years. I am a great lover of children and so was he until we took a baby in our home shortly after we were married. Since that time he has turned completely against little ones. Every time anyone comes to our home with children, even an always afraid he will say something to hurt the parents' feelings. He also says that if a little one ever comes to our home he will kill himself or leave. We only kept this child in our home one month and it was a relation of his."

"Sometimes, Mrs. Lee, I think about leaving my husband because he is so mean to us, for if he leaves me after this I think it would be best to go away in time. We very seldom go out together and if we do I have to beg two or three days ahead of time to get him to go. He wants to sit and listen to the radio and read, and when I start talking to him he says, 'don't talk, I'm busy.' I couldn't have found any one to treat me better only Mrs. Lee. I guess I'm lonesome and get the blues but I yearn for a darling little one. 'LONELY THOUGH, MARRIED.'"

And I don't wonder you get lonesome and blue under the circumstances, dear. You married for the companionship of your man, and in the natural longing of every normal woman for children and you are being cheated of both. Your husband is selfish. That is his trouble. He means well, is good to you, and 'darling,' as you put it, as long as things go along smoothly and he doesn't have to be put out. But a child disturbs the smooth running of his life, therefore, he doesn't want children. You interfere with his chosen occupations—reading and listening to the radio—therefore you must be quiet. And he'd rather stay at home than go out, therefore you mustn't ask to be taken out. I wish we could wake him up to this before it is too late. I wish somehow we could make him see how much happier he himself will be in the long run if he thinks of you instead of himself—if he at least goes 50-50 with you. Try hard, sweetly and tactfully, to make him see how unfair it is for him always to have his way, and that if you let him read and listen part of the time he should try to entertain you part. Try not to worry him about babies. When you see on that is especially attractive, how ever, point it out to him and say that if you had a baby it probably would be sweet like that. And if you cannot win him over and you still love him and don't want to leave him, do what you can for children outside. There are so many dear little ones in institutions who would be grateful for a little love and help that you need not be childless while you can do things for them."

Peter's Adventure

By MRS. FLORENCE SMITH VINCENT

WHAT'S IN A NAME?

"Oh I am sure you wouldn't let anything happen to my dear old Dove!" cried the boy. "I wasn't fearing a fall, indeed. I was not thinking about that at all. You said the distance was great. Now I might go way off with you and have to stay there a long, long time until one of your friends was willing to bring me back. Perhaps I should never be able to get home again. I could not walk it, could I?"

Dove fluttered his wings and jockeyed his head—a sure sign that he was thinking deeply.

"I don't believe so—no, I am sure that you could not," declared Dove, at last. "As I said before, it is rather a long fly."

You see we Doves do not consider our journey ended until we have come to the great woods that grow by the Green River.

"Ha! Ha! That makes me laugh. Don't think me rude, boy, but the Two-Legs do the queerest things sometimes. For instance, why they should say that river is green is just about thick!"

"And what is the use of calling the country through which it runs Kentucky? As if any place that had things so lovely as woods and water needed a name."

"It does seem as if the funny Two-Legs must call everything something or they would not know where they were. We birds don't care a pin-feather about names. All we need to know is direction and we seldom fail to light on the spot for which we start."

"However, as I was saying, you couldn't possibly walk, boy, but I can promise you a ride back any time you want it come."

"You have no idea how rest less some of the Doves are. Even of the cool shadows of the woods they soon tire, and day and night they come and go. That is why they call my people Passenger Pigeons. We are constantly passing and repassing each other, you know."

Peter looked puzzled. Then he laughed.

"I don't believe that is the reason you are called Passenger Doves," said he. "You see, passenger would not be passenger unless they rode in something, and you don't do that, now, do you?"

"We certainly do, my dear fellow," declared Dove, sticking his point. "We ride in the air and could there be anything better? Tell me that, now."

"Instead of arguing about little things like that, though, answer my question. Will you or will you not fly to the great woods with me?"

Nevertheless we all hope that Dr. Martin is right in his predictions.

LAUGHING

A Texas physician introduces the case of a woman given up to die at 37 years of age. She thought that inasmuch as it was all settled she might as well stop worrying about it. She immediately set about having as good a time as she could—and lived to be 103.

Laughter clear worry out of the brain and as real exercise for the body. And if a thing can't be helped we might as well laugh as cry about it. And sometimes it is aided, after all.

AIR SPORTS

Wyoming aviators amuse themselves by shooting coyotes from the air. The aviator cruises over the prairie, sight their prey, swoop down and fire. It's great sport—if you don't crash.

The Diary

of a

New Yorker

By WALTER WINCHELL

NEW YORK—I have already given instructions to my attorneys. If ever I become a successful motion picture star with a tremendous following, including the Scandinavians, they are to take a sledge hammer of a substantial size, they are to back me against a brick wall and before I can say Jacob Rabonowitz they are to swing the hammer over their heads, resting the iron mallet on that part of the collar protruding from the collar. These instructions were given to my attorneys about four months ago, when I went to interview Douglas Fairbanks in Paris.

Douglas Fairbanks and Mary Pickford arrived in Paris with the newspaper hounds sniffing at their heels. Mary was indisposed. It was up to Fairbanks to amuse the newspaper men, to answer their questions, to pose for their pictures and to do the stunt concomitant with getting one's picture in the papers, creating good will and helping the sale of motion pictures.

To do this Doug had to beam all afternoon. Although it was raining, although he had not had lunch, although his trunk was not unpacked, although his wife was in another room nursing a headache, the film star had to beam—had to flash two even rows of white teeth. Here were the newspaper men asking him how it feels to get out of Hollywood, wasn't it simply grand to be in Paris, and the French equivalent for "What do you think of our sky line and how do you like our women?" Why, you old rascals, was Fairbanks' attitude, I'm enchanted with this country, I'm delighted to be here. Yes to you, sir. And yes to you, sir. And smile, smile.

Then the picture boys got ready. Couldn't he possibly, possibly persuade Mary to pose with him? Of course she was ill, but couldn't she get up for one teeny, weeny second to pose for a picture? I would take just a second, because all photographers are always ready with their cameras, the boy who holds the flashlight never fails to click it at the proper moment, and the flashlight never, never backfires or fails to work. Douglas Fairbanks held his own ground. He just smiled and smiled and smiled.

And then the personality boys mooched forward to spread him with their questions. They don't ask the routine interrogations. Theirs are the personal questions. "Did you get that stunt in Hollywood?" Yes, Well, how about the rest of your body? So Fairbanks rolls his trousers to his thighs to show the inquisitive ones that he really is sunburned all over. It's the personal boys who tap his chest and feel his muscles and perform in such clinical fashion as to make me wonder why Fairbanks didn't extend his tongue and say "Ah!"

Then for two hours the actor has to write "With best wishes, Douglas Fairbanks." To my good friend, Douglas Fairbanks; "Pal, old pal, Douglas Fairbanks"; "In memory of days at Heidelberg, Douglas Fairbanks"; "Anonymously, Douglas Fairbanks";

Finally the last autograph is written and the visitors depart. The acrobatic star seems tired. He sees me, groans, but bravely steps forward to find out my wishes. I ask for a sheet of paper and some writing material. It is a sign of dispatch a note to my attorney.

"If ever I become a successful motion picture star with a tremendous following, including the Scandinavians, you are to take a sledge hammer of a substantial size, you are to back me against a brick wall"—well, see the first paragraph.

Kellygrams

Time was when I thought an old, weather-beaten automobile, badly in need of repainting, indicated a lack of thrift on the part of the owner. The truth is that these lack-luster cars are owned not necessarily by the unthrifty but by philosophers. A freshly painted automobile is a kill-joy. You are constantly apprehensive lest the brand new coat of enamel is to receive its FIRST SCRATCH.

NO CHOICE

A "Tommy" lying in a hospital during the war, had beside him a watch of curious and foreign design. The attending doctor was interested.

"Where did your watch come from?" he asked.

"A German gave it to me," he answered.

A little piqued, the doctor inquired how the foe had come to convey this token of esteem and affection.

"E'ad to," was the laconic reply.

In the Small Family

If the layer cake is just a little too large for the family to finish before it gets stale, it is a good idea to ice only half of it at a time, wrapping the other half in waxed paper and keeping it in an airtight box. Then, when the first half is eaten, ice the second half with an entirely different sort of frosting, and it will be as good as a new cake.

NOT AS SOLID AS IT WAS CRACKED UP TO BE!

Behind the Scenes in Washington

By CHARLES P. STEWART

WASHINGTON—Did President Coolidge hope strenuously for a Hoover victory?

It may sound like a blasphemous question.

Nevertheless, it was asked a good many times, as election day drew closer and closer. Moreover, a negative answer was put frequently in the mouth of the president. I would take just a second, because all photographers are always ready with their cameras, the boy who holds the flashlight never fails to click it at the proper moment, and the flashlight never, never backfires or fails to work. Douglas Fairbanks held his own ground. He just smiled and smiled and smiled.

The fact is, the circumstances of the G. O. P. standard bearer's last call at the White House, just before he left for California, created a first-class sensation in Washington.

Up to that juncture not a peep from Mr. Coolidge had indicated that he even knew who was nominated in June at Kansas City.

"But now," said everybody, "he'll give Hoover a grand send-off."

A microphone had been set up in front of the executive mansion for Calvin to make his speech into, and to transmit Mr. Hoover's response to waiting millions.

Everything was fixed—the Republican campaign managers were just that certain that an occasion had arrived when the president couldn't get out of giving a big boost to the party's choice as his successor.

History informs us what followed. President Coolidge faced the "mike," launched himself, and launched this stirring oration:

"Good-bye, Mr. Hoover. I wish you a pleasant trip to California and a safe return. Good-bye. The anti-climax was something terrible."

At any rate, a general rush of Republican politicians to the White House ensued immediately—friends of Hoover and some friends of Coolidge.

The impression in Washington is that they said substantially: "Look here, Mr. President, this is awful—you owe it to the party not to throw us down at a critical moment like the present—You simply must say a good word for Herbert"—and appealed to his better nature.

It worked—evidently. Mr. Coolidge's "you have shown your fitness to be president" telegram overtook Mr. Hoover at St. Louis.

Better late than never.

Now that it is all over, what of it?

Still, it is interesting to know what great men think of one another.

If it is a fact that Mr. Coolidge never has been a Hoover enthusiast, it is also a fact that Mr. Coolidge, at times, undoubtedly has trembled for Mr. Hoover.

The former made it rather too plain to be flattered that he did not care for the latter in the secretary of state's office. He was inconspicuously slow about clearing the way for Mr. Hoover during the pre-convention period. He certainly took his time about expressing himself in favor of Mr. Hoover's presidential candidacy.

Worst job of all—with the campaign on his lips—was his opinion that prosperity would continue even in the event of Al Smith's election.

Statements of presidential candidates are above jealousy, of course.

If they were ordinary human beings, there are occasions when from the way they act, they might be suspected of it.

Household Hints

By MRS. MARY MORTON

MENU HINT

Breaded Veal Cutlets
Buttered Rice
Vitamin Salad
Steamed Fruit Caudle Coffee

Serve rice occasionally instead of potatoes. Put one cup of rice on to boil briskly in one quart of salted water, first washing it, of course. Let it boil until all the water has been absorbed. Shake, but do not stir, as you will break the grains if you do. Pile in vegetable dish with a good sized lump (or several lumps) of butter on top.

Today's Recipes

Vitamin Salad—Get a small head of cabbage and a small head of lettuce. Cut thin slices from the cabbage and let them soak in French dressing for half an hour. Grate one large carrot and a quarter teaspoon salt; grate an onion at time of serving. Arrange a slice of lettuce out crosswise on the head on individual salad plates; place the cabbage slices, pour over the French dressing, sprinkle with grated onion, then grated carrot, then with minced parsley.

Steamed Fruit Pudding—Sift together one and two-thirds cups flour, one-half teaspoon soda, one-fourth teaspoon salt, one of cinnamon and cloves, one-half teaspoon nutmeg or mace. Add three tablespoons melted butter, one-half cup sweet milk and one-half cup molasses. Finally add either half a pound of raisins or dates, cut fine; a little lemon peel, if you like. Turn into a buttered dish and bake in a water bath until the crust is done. Serve with cream or tomato sauce, or cold without sauce.

Suggestions

Liver Pasties

Make a good short pie crust, roll thin and cut into six-inch squares. Roll a pound of calf's liver until tender. Drain and chop fine. Add two tablespoons butter, pepper, salt, a cup of dry apple sauce, juice of an onion, a teaspoon sugar, two tablespoons chopped pecan nuts and a tablespoon very dry crumbs. Put a large spoonful into each pastry square, add a little lump of butter, fold over the crust and pinch in the ends. Pick the top with a steel fork and bake on a buttered dish until the crust is done. Serve hot with cream or tomato sauce, or cold without sauce.

upright at all times and on all occasions.

The back crawl stroke in swimming is a very good form of exercise. Here is a good exercise to wear away the flabby flesh at diaphragm and abdomen:

Lie on your back, hands clasped firmly at the base of your neck, elbows sticking out on either side. Raise your legs together in a swift, swinging movement until little by little you can get them further back over your head. In time you will be able to touch the tips of your toes. Lower slowly. Don't go into this too vigorously. Your back muscles are a varied and important group—a much too important to subject to a possibility of back strain.

Diet and Health

EAT BALANCED FOOD AND BE YOUNG AT SEVENTY

Dancing for Health.

"I am not overweight, but being a dancer, I have to watch my diet. I am one of those mortals who cannot eat a chocolate without its sticking out on me! I feel much better living on leafy vegetables, fresh fruits, milk, and meat once a day, than in fried foods, heavy desserts, etc.

"There is not a day that passes without my stretching and limbering exercises. A number of them seem similar to yours, and we call them 'reconditioning exercises,' and I give them to all my pupils. They distribute the flesh evenly and properly, making the fat ones thin and the thin ones fat. They are normalizing, in other words. A number of my pupils have benefited by the combined efforts of diet and exercise."

"We all have a dream of life in our family, even did before it was fashionable to be slender. My mother cooks as many non-fattening foods as she can locate in the markets, and we are the healthiest family living. Dad, mother and auntie are in the 70's, and the ladies look like young girls and have much power. The ladies are one of the country's oldest dancing teachers, internationally known, now in Europe lecturing on the dance. She believes in keeping fit."

Thank you, L. for your interesting and instructive letter. Ballet and acrobatic dancing—with the exercises that go with them—are certainly superior modes of exercise and I believe should be taught in some form to all children.

I'm going to give you a resume of an article on Ballet Dancing, by Dr. Philip Lewin, an orthopedic surgeon, in the March, 1927, number of Hygeia. As an orthopedic surgeon, he naturally writes from a standpoint of health and the correction of deformities. While the doctor was writing for girls, acrobatic dancing is equally good for boys and adults—naturally, in all cases if there is no contra-indication to active exercise.

"Through ballet dancing the girl may develop and improve her concentration, poise, sense of balance, quickness and accuracy of thinking, co-ordination of mind, muscle and body, an sense of rhythm both of music and of movement. Added to the mental health benefits is the important factor of enjoyment."

"Physical health benefits are found in improved circulation and digestion and in development of muscle (of both the heart and the skeleton), ligament, tendon and bone structure."

"Improvement in body symmetry, carriage, posture and physical attitude is great. In children who are overweight the benefits of the physical activity of ballet dancing, for a while, have a tendency to prevent the deposition of fat. The child is improved by the general stimulation of body functions, especially circulatory, muscular and digestive functions."

"Ballet dancing is the foundation of all branches of the art. Through ballet work the muscles may be properly developed and the balance and poise necessary in any kind of dancing is obtained."

"Acrobatics may be a valuable auxiliary to ballet dancing. It must be taught by a specially trained instructor, who must give every child individual attention in order to prevent injury. Back-bending stunts must not be indulged in too strenuously or too constantly. It is children with thyroid gland disturbance acrobatics and some times ballet dancing are to be avoided."

LOVERS PICTURE WEDDED BLISS: MARRIAGE OFF REVERSE OF THIS

What a lottery is life! How different is the picture each lover carries in his and her heart of the loved one to the reality as revealed through marriage. The great adventure—marriage—looks so fair. How often it is the reverse. This is what makes mothers cry at weddings. The youngsters are so sweet, so happy—to be so blessed. And the parents know that in the happiest union there will be many heart-aches as the two young lives adjust themselves. We want our children to marry. It is the normal life and the happiest. But if we only could spare them the suffering that they will have to endure. However, it wouldn't be best, I suppose, even if we could save them the disappointments. They grow through these just as surely comes to the union of two souls in most marriages. The woman who writes the following letter is expecting some of these disillusion.

"Dear Mrs. Lee: I am writing for advice from you. I have a darling hubby to whom I have been married two years. I am a great lover of children and so was he until we took a baby in our home shortly after we were married. Since that time he has turned completely against little ones. Every time anyone comes to our home with children I am always afraid he will say something to hurt the parents' feelings. He also says that if a little one ever comes to our home he will kill himself or leave. We only kept this child in our home one month and it was a real pain of his."

"Sometimes, Mrs. Lee, I think about leaving my husband before a child is born to us, for if he leaves me afterwards I think it would be very hard to go away in time. We seldom go out together and if we do I have to beg two or three days ahead of time to get him to go. He wants to stay and listen to the radio and read, and when I start talking to him he says, 'don't talk, I'm busy.' I couldn't have found any one to treat me better than Mrs. Lee. I guess I get lonely and get the blues, but I yearn for a darling little one."

"LONELY THOUGH I AM, I'M MARRIED."

And I don't wonder you get lonely and blue under these circumstances, dear. You married for the companionship of your man, and the natural longing of every normal woman for children, and you are being cheated on both. Your husband is selfish. That is his trouble. He means it is good to you, and "day" as you put it, goes 50-50 with you. Try hard, sweetly and patiently, to make him see how unfair it is for him always to have HIS way, and that if you let him read and listen part of the time he should try to entertain you part. Try not to worry him about babies. When you see on that is especially attractive, however, point it out to him and say, "If he at least goes 50-50 with you. RABBIT DISEASE IS TAKEN BY HANDLING ANIMALS IS SAID

In a warning sounded Wednesday by Dr. A. D. DeHaven, city health commissioner, rabbit hunters were warned to keep the hands well protected in handling and cleaning game as a precaution against tularemia, or "rabbit fever."

Dr. DeHaven also advised that rabbits be cooked thoroughly before consumption, declaring that the disease is infectious but not contagious.

"If a rabbit does not look healthy, throw it away," Dr. DeHaven advised as the safest plan to safeguard against the disease. Spots on the liver are a sure sign the rabbit is diseased, he said.

Housewives are advised to wear gloves in preparing rabbits. No cases of rabbit fever were reported here last year, according to Dr. DeHaven, although approximately 2 per cent of the Ohio rabbits are afflicted with it.

FORTY KILLED IN ARGENTINA STORM

BUENOS AIRES, Nov. 14.—Forty persons were reported killed and at least 100,000 hectares of new crops were destroyed in a cyclone that swept parts of Argentina Monday night, witnesses disclosed today.

Communications are so badly disrupted that the full details can not be obtained yet. It was known, however, the cyclone was one of the worst that has reached this area in years.

ANOTHER VICTORY! NEW HEALTH COMES THROUGH KONJOLA

Stomach Trouble and Kidney Pains Are Quickly Ended by This New Remedy

This celebrated Konjola medicine helps Nature restore the stomach, liver, kidneys and bowels to a more healthy, normal action. Most of the common disorders of the important functional organs have been conquered by this new compound. The people of Xenia are strongly endorsing it. Over a hundred testimonials have been received within a few short weeks, all from men and women in this vicinity and the Konjola Man at the Gallaher Drug Store, Xenia, is kept busy each day explaining this remarkable remedy to local people.

One of the latest endorsements came from Mrs. Mary Gooding, Stetson Road, this city, who made the following statement:

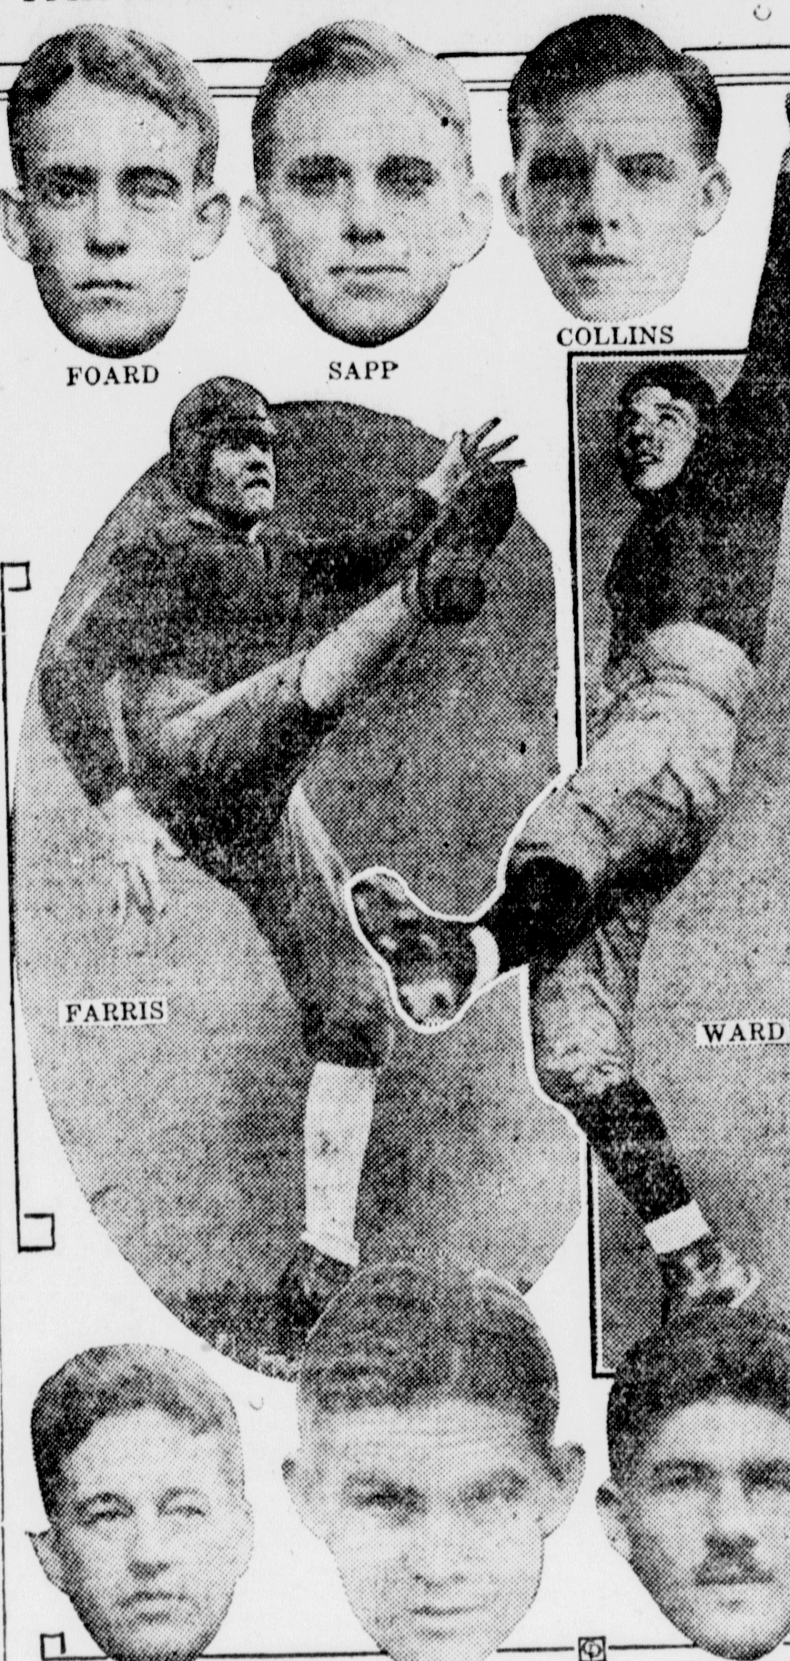

"I want to endorse such a wonderful medicine as your Konjola," said Mrs. Gooding, "it stopped my stomach and kidney trouble when all else failed."

"I was in a general rundown condition and my stomach was the worst of all. After nearly every meal gas would rise up into my chest and throat cutting off my wind and virtually choking me. I bought everything I could, to help relieve this awful ailment, but I could never find anything that would do me the slightest bit of good. A hot, sour, bitter liquid would then come up into my mouth burning like fire and the only relief I could get from it would be soda and even then the relief would only be temporary. My heart would flutter and palpitate so much that at times I thought I had heart trouble. My kidneys were in a frightful condition and the pains caused by them are untold. My feet and ankles would swell and the pains across the small of my back were terrific. At night I couldn't sleep well but had to rise several times due to bladder weakness. The following morning when I got up I felt worn out and I didn't feel like doing anything. These many ailments were sapping my weight and strength so much that soon I was just a mere semblance of my former self."

"This was my condition before I found Konjola and there were times when I would have been thankful if something would have happened to end it all. My husband had gotten such a wonderful relief by taking Konjola that I thought I would try it too and see if it wouldn't help me. I commenced taking it and before the first bottle was gone I could see a vast improvement coming over my whole system in general. I continued with this medicine until I had completed a full treatment. Now, my stomach trouble is over, I can sit down and eat anything suffering the least bit of after eating pains. My kidneys are well and strong again and when I go to bed I can sleep right on through the night without ever having to get up. I honestly feel one hundred per cent improved and I owe all my good health to Konjola."

The Konjola Man is at the Gallaher Drug Store, Xenia, where he is daily meeting the public and explaining the merits of this remedy. Free sample given. —Adv.

TAR HEELS USE IRISH GRID STYLE

With three former Notre Dame football stars on its coaching staff, the University of North Carolina is using the Irish system of play this season. The coaches are Head Coach Chuck Collins, Bill Cerney and Rex Enright. The Tar Heels opened the season with a 65 to 0 win over Wake Forest. Ritticisms BY BILL RITT

A Mexican government official saw an American football game and hurried home. He had learned something in the art of conducting civil war.

He took one look at a couple of scoundrels and came to the conclusion that Carranza, Villa and those other boys must have been playing a refined game of tiddledywinks.

In the next revolution down there the rebels will probably throw away their guns, don head-gears and make an end run for the capitol.

The unlucky president may call for a delayed pass but he'll be off side anyway so the rebels will probably punt with the executive being the puntee.

After he recovered six months later he was so weak they had to feed him air through a straw.

HELL NO MYTH SAYS EVANGELIST HERE

"Hell is no myth but a mighty reality," said the Rev. Mr. Sharp, evangelist, at the Nazarene Church, Monday evening. "Some of them are confusing the grave with hell. They are two distinct, separate places."

"If there is no hell there is no devil, for hell was prepared for the devil and if there is no devil there is no sin and if no sin, no Savior and if no Savior, no Bible."

Harry Pagan is singing at the service. Wednesday night's meeting will open at 7:30. The public is cordially invited.

ASSISTANT POLICE HEAD SUSPENDED

PHILADELPHIA, Nov. 14.—Assistant Supt. of Police Caleb J. Brinton was ordered suspended at noon today by Mayor Harry Mac key after charges had been made that he was "unfit to hold any position under the municipal government."

The special grand jury investigating the underworld and police corruption made its report on Brinton before Judge Edwin O. Lewis late yesterday. It was on

GRID PLAYER SHOT

Shot twice by one of four gangsters who ordered him out of the automobile in which he and his brother were riding in Chicago, John Acher, of Fort Dodge, Ia., substitute fullback on the Northwestern university football team, is near death at a Chicago hospital. He will be paralyzed for life, should he recover, physicians say.

Bowling

After being entrenched in the cellar for most of the season, the Lang Chevrolet Co. served notice that it declines any longer to be made a stepping stone for championship hopes of Recreation Bowling League teams by making a clean sweep of the three-game series with the McDowell and Torrence Lumber Co. Tuesday night. By sweeping the series, Langs climbed out of last place and advanced into a tie with the Lang Transfers for fourth place. Bill Horner was high man of the match with a three-game total of 566. Geddes topped the losers with 550. Box score:

PARENT-TEACHER BODY JOINS DRIVE

Decision to join the Xenia Community Chest was reached by the Council of Xenia Federated P.T.A., at the called meeting recently at the home of Mrs. W. E. Currie, president of the council.

Special permission was given the organization to join the drive by the state P.T.A. president, who said "The Xenia Council of P.T.A. is so different from the average P.T.A. and is of such a splendid

Quickest Way to Sweeten Stomach

PERHAPS that sour condition of your stomach is due to an over-stimulation of gastric acid. A sour stomach isn't very pleasant, and isn't very easy to excuse when there is so simple a way to remedy it. To neutralize the harmful acid and put your stomach in good order take a little "Pape's Diapiesin"; after meals, or whenever the need is felt.

This fine remedy removes the cause of the trouble and promotes normal, healthy digestion. "Pape's Diapiesin" is sold by all druggists at 60 cents a package, and is the remedy which is recommended by millions because it gives immediate relief in all cases of difficult and painful digestion.

Be sure, therefore, to provide yourself with "Pape's Diapiesin" today, so that stomach pain and digestive troubles need never worry you again. Or sour stomach cause you discomfort. This form of relief has helped many who thought their disorders could not be helped.

RABBIT DISEASE IS TAKEN BY HANDLING ANIMALS IS SAID

In a warning sounded Wednesday by Dr. A. D. DeHaven, city health commissioner, rabbit hunters were warned to keep their hands well protected in handling and cleaning game as a precaution against tularemia, or "rabbit fever."

Dr. DeHaven also advised that rabbits be cooked thoroughly before consumption, declaring that the disease is infectious but not contagious.

"If a rabbit does not look healthy, throw it away," Dr. DeHaven advised as the safest plan to safeguard against the disease. Spots on the liver are a sure sign the rabbit is diseased, he said.

Housewives are advised to wear gloves in preparing rabbits.

No cases of rabbit fever were reported here last year, according to Dr. DeHaven, although approximately 2 per cent of the Ohio rabbits are afflicted with it.

FORTY KILLED IN ARGENTINA STORM

BUENOS AIRES, Nov. 14.—Forty persons were reported killed and at least 100,000 hectares of new crops were destroyed in a cyclone that swept parts of Argentina Monday night, witnesses disclosed today.

Communications are so badly disrupted that the full details cannot be obtained yet. It was known, however, the cyclone was one of the worst that has reached this area in years.

ANOTHER VICTORY! NEW HEALTH COMES THROUGH KONJOLA

Stomach Trouble and Kidney Pain Are Quickly Ended by This New Remedy

This celebrated Konjola medicine helps Nature restore the stomach, liver, kidneys and bowels to a more healthy, normal action. Most of the common disorders of the important functional organs have been conquered by this new compound. The people of Xenia are strongly endorsing it. Over a hundred testimonials have been received within a few short weeks, all from men and women in this vicinity and the Konjola Man at the Gallagher Drug Store, Xenia, is kept busy each day explaining this remarkable remedy to local people.

One of the latest endorsements came from Mrs. Mary Gooding, Stelton Road, this city, who made the following statement:

"I want to endorse such a wonderful medicine as your Konjola," said Mrs. Gooding. "It stopped my stomach and kidney trouble when all else failed."

"I was in a general rundown condition and my stomach was the worst of all. After nearly every meal gas would rise up into my chest and throat cutting off my wind and virtually choking me. I bought everything I could to help relieve this awful ailment but I could never find anything that would do me the slightest bit of good. A hot, sour, bitter liquid would then come up into my mouth burning like fire and the only relief I could get from it would be soda and even then the relief would only be temporary. My heart would flutter and palpitate so much that at times I thought I had heart trouble. My kidneys were in a frightful condition and the pains caused by them are untold. My feet and ankles would swell and the pains across the small of my back were terrific. At night I couldn't sleep well but had to rise several times due to bladder weakness. The following morning when I got up I felt worn out and I didn't feel like doing anything. These many ailments were sapping my weight and strength so much that soon I was just a mere semblance of my former self."

"This was my condition before I found Konjola and there were times when I would have been thankful if something would have happened to end it all. My husband had gotten such a wonderful relief by taking Konjola that I thought I would try it too and see if it wouldn't help me. I commenced taking it and before the first bottle was gone I could see a vast improvement coming over my whole system in general. I continued with this medicine until I had completed a full treatment. Now, my stomach trouble is over, I can sit down and eat anything that is placed before me without suffering the least bit of after eating pains. My kidneys are well and strong again and when I go to bed I can sleep right on through the night without ever having to get up. I honestly feel one hundred per cent improved and I owe all my good health to Konjola."

strongly endorsing it. Over a hundred testimonials have been received within a few short weeks, all from men and women in this vicinity and the Konjola Man at the Gallagher Drug Store, Xenia, is kept busy each day explaining this remarkable remedy to local people.

One of the latest endorsements came from Mrs. Mary Gooding, Stelton Road, this city, who made the following statement:

"I want to endorse such a wonderful medicine as your Konjola," said Mrs. Gooding. "It stopped my stomach and kidney trouble when all else failed."

"I was in a general rundown condition and my stomach was the worst of all. After nearly every meal gas would rise up into my chest and throat cutting off my wind and virtually choking me. I bought everything I could to help relieve this awful ailment but I could never find anything that would do me the slightest bit of good. A hot, sour, bitter liquid would then come up into my mouth burning like fire and the only relief I could get from it would be soda and even then the relief would only be temporary. My heart would flutter and palpitate so much that at times I thought I had heart trouble. My kidneys were in a frightful condition and the pains caused by them are untold. My feet and ankles would swell and the pains across the small of my back were terrific. At night I couldn't sleep well but had to rise several times due to bladder weakness. The following morning when I got up I felt worn out and I didn't feel like doing anything. These many ailments were sapping my weight and strength so much that soon I was just a mere semblance of my former self."

"This was my condition before I found Konjola and there were times when I would have been thankful if something would have happened to end it all. My husband had gotten such a wonderful relief by taking Konjola that I thought I would try it too and see if it wouldn't help me. I commenced taking it and before the first bottle was gone I could see a vast improvement coming over my whole system in general. I continued with this medicine until I had completed a full treatment. Now, my stomach trouble is over, I can sit down and eat anything that is placed before me without suffering the least bit of after eating pains. My kidneys are well and strong again and when I go to bed I can sleep right on through the night without ever having to get up. I honestly feel one hundred per cent improved and I owe all my good health to Konjola."

GRID PLAYER SHOT

Shot twice by one of four gangsters who ordered him out of the automobile in which he and his brother were riding in Chicago.

John Archer, of Port in Chicago, a substitute fullback on the Northwestern university football team, is near death at a Chicago hospital. He will be paralyzed for life, should he recover, physicians say.

After being entrenched in the cellar for most of the season, the Lang Chevrolet Co. served notice that it declines any longer to be made a stepping stone for championship hopes of Recreation Bowling League teams by making a clean sweep of the three-game series with the McDowell and Torrence Lumber Co. Tuesday night.

By sweeping the series, Langs climbed out of last place and advanced into a tie with the Lang Transfers for fourth place. Bill Horner was high man of the match with a three-game total of 596.

Geddes topped the losers with 550. Box score:

LIBRARY CELEBRATES 50th ANNIVERSARY

PROGRAM ON FRIDAY OBSERVES HALF-CENTURY OF EXISTENCE

Library Movement Began 112 Years Ago But Action Of "Tuesday Club" Brought Real Organization; Friends Invited To Birthday Party

GREENE COUNTY'S public library system is fifty years old.

Fifty years of effort, emanating from a modest beginning has resulted in the present county-wide system of book distribution well-housed and catalogued and Friday library folk are going to celebrate the golden anniversary of the occasion.

There will be open house at the library Friday, with tea or the visitors and a special exhibit of new children's books to claim the attention of guests. Miss Mildred Sandoe, librarian, Miss Etta G. McElwain, whose tenure of service parallels the growth of the library itself and others identified with the organization, will play hosts to all Greene County in this occasion. Friday night there will be another program. Greene Countians are not only invited but urged to attend, so that all may see the progress that has resulted from the humble efforts of the founders.

The first meeting of the subscribers was held on the fourth Saturday of March 1878, at which time the organization was effected.

Subscribers to the paper were: James P. Espey, Josiah Grover, William T. Elkin, Philip Gold, William Ellsberry, Samuel Peckham, Joshua Martin, Moses Collier, John Bonner, Thomas Hunter, John Gaff, John Haines, Thomas Hiesple, James Collier, John Hines, William Laugesd, William Alexander, George Junkin, Jesse Atson, Robert W. Stevenson, Anthony Cannon, Samuel McBeth, Barton and Beall, Jacob Haines, Francis Kendall, James Twier, Andrew Alexander, Joshua G. Talbot, Jacob Smith, Henry Morgan, James Lamme, James Galloway, Lewis Wright, W. A. Beatty, Alexander Armstrong, William Richards, Daniel Keco, James Hopper, William Clunie, Robert Forsman, Thomas Embree.

The history of the library situation in Xenia from 1816 to 1878 is obscure and no records are left of the doings of the "company". The movement seems to have died out in the '70s.

In the winter of 1877-78 a group of eight young women organized what they called the "Tuesday club". The members were Elizabeth Ewing, Jennie Morris, Anna McCracken, Clara Allen, Belle Atch, Elouisa F. King, Isadora F. King and Emma C. King. They opened literary papers, discussed literature, but found themselves handicapped by the lack of a library. Their need led to the meeting, August 20, 1878, when the Young Women's Library Association was organized. The first officers were: Anna McCracken, president; Emma C. King, vice-president; Jennie Morris, secretary and Belle Gatch, treasurer. Without funds to purchase books, the members obtained permission to take the books of the Young Men's Christian Association as the nucleus of the library for the town. Immediately started out to buy books at the same time sold dollars which would entitle the holder to use the library for one year. I. Millen, owner of the building Green St., where the room was taken, let them have the headquarters free of rent.

Here was opened the public library September 14, 1878. At the close of the first year the association was able to report 137 members holding tickets entitling them to the use of books. From 1878 to 1885 the library is open only on Wednesday afternoon and all day Saturday, the members taking turns as librarians. November 8, 1881 the inaugurated incorporated themselves under the name of the Xenia Library association, the original fight being members of the association. In 1885 the association decided to make a strenuous effort to increase the value of the library by lifting upon the citizens of the city for donations. Their efforts are rewarded with donations to a amount of $227.50.

They now felt they could afford a librarian and Miss Clara Martin is employed. She was followed by Mrs. Etta Carruthers who in 1890 was succeeded by Elizabeth Kyle. Miss Etta G. McElwain, who is still identified with the library, took the office May 1, 1888. The next change in the history of the library followed the legislative act of February 14, 1898, which empowered boards of education to levy a tax not to exceed one-half mill for the benefit and support of free public libraries. The library management voted to run the library over to the city after the necessary tax levy as provided, the first free public library in Xenia was opened to the public September 1, 1899. In the fall of 1902 the management was the recipient of an offer from Andrew Carnegie, offering to give $20,000 for the erection of a library building, provided the city furnished a site and guaranteed $2,000 a year for its maintenance. The proposition was promptly accepted and a site was donated by Mrs. Louisa R. Lackey and Lillian Roberts. The board of education accepted the site and agreed to the proposition of Carnegie. The building cost $20,000 but there was no money with which to furnish it. Again Carnegie was appealed to and he donated $1,350. The donors one to the library was had July 22, 1904 and the building opened to the public Tuesday, June 1, 1906.

Due to the fact that the taxing system of the state was so changed as to make it impossible for the school board to raise the necessary money for both the schools and library, the city had to relinquish the library in 1913. The library appealed to the county commissioners for assistance and that body agreed to furnish the necessary funds to keep the library going. While the matter was under discussion the available funds of the library were used and quick action to save the library was needed. Several public-spirited people came forward with donations of $400, sufficient to bridge the difficulty for the time being. The transfer took place June 4, 1913 and the name of the library was changed from the Carnegie library to the Greene County District Library. The library continued to struggle with financial difficulties and in November, 1926, the library board asked the people of the county to help it obtain more money by voting for its re-organization under the "County District Library" law, which would enable it to collect a sufficient income for operating expenses. The people voted "yes" and the Greene County District Library became the "Greene County District Library". Miss Mildred Sandoe, who gained wide experience in Columbus and other cities in library work was employed as district librarian. Miss McElwain is still a familiar figure at the district library desk. Today the library has seven branches over the county, eight deposit stations and has supplied forty-eight schools of the county with books and has further plans for the future.

Although Friday marks the "golden anniversary" of the library, the first effort to establish a public library in Xenia dates back 112 years. Xenia boasted not more than 500 residents at that time, but the forefathers were grim in their determination to found a reading center for the village. The agitation, which had its inception in the winter of 1815-16 finally resulted in the drawing up of a subscription paper setting forth the purpose of the proposed library. The rules under which the proposed library was going to operate and the general management of the institution when it got started.

TWO KILLED WHEN TRAIN HITS AUTO
MANSFIELD, O., Nov. 14.—Deadman's Crossing has claimed two more lives. Jacob Bushey, 48, and his son, Harold, 24, were killed when their automobile was struck by a Pennsylvania passenger train at the crossing. The bodies were carried 300 feet before the speeding train was brought to a stop. The automobile was reduced to pieces of twisted steel and wood. The victims were returning from the Empire Steel plant, where they were employed, when the accident occurred.

PHOTOS SHOW LIBRARY BRANCHES AND DEPOSIT STATIONS

Views of some of the County District Library branches and deposit stations are shown above: No. 1: Bowersville branch; No. 2: Wilberforce branch; No. 3: Yellow Springs branch; No. 4: Yellow Springs branch; No. 5: Zimmermann branch; No. 6: Jamestown branch; No. 7: New Burlington branch; No. 8: Greene County District Library, Xenia.

The pictures show the type of work the Greene County District Library is doing in taking books to rural residents. The branches at Yellow Springs, Jamestown, Wilberforce and Bowersville are typical in that they show the various types of rooms used, 1—the library in its own quarters in a room meant for a store room or office but suitable for a library; 2—the library in the principal office in a centralized or village high school; 3—the library branch in a room in an already established local library and 4—the library branch occupying space in a warehouse store.

PROGRESS HAS MARKED LIBRARY ACTIVITIES DURING 18 MONTHS

Progress has marked the activities of the Greene County District Library during the last year and one-half, since it was placed on a sound financial basis. Branch libraries have been opened at Jamestown, Ross Twp., Yellow Springs, Wilberforce, Spring Valley and Bowersville. Deposit stations are being operated at Alpha, Zimmermann, Trebeins, Clinton, Coes, New Burlington, Paintsville and Spring Valley. School and class room collections are sent regularly covering forty-seven schools. Circulation for the last eighteen months of record, from January 1, 1927 to June 30, 1928, amounted to 132 volumes, and increase of 43,264 volumes over the previous eighteen months. Circulation the first six months of this year amounted to 60,241 volumes, an increase of 29,729 over the previous six months.

BUT ONE CANDIDATE FILES EXPENSES

Although the time for filing expenses Friday, November 16 at midnight, only one campaign expense account has been filed with R. E. Dunkel, clerk of the board of elections, he announced Wednesday. The lone expense statement on file is that of Dr. F. M. Chambliss, re-elected coroner at the November 6 election. His account shows he received nothing and spent nothing on his campaign. All local Republican and Democratic candidates, whether elected or defeated, are required to file accounts listing their campaign receipts and expenses with the election board within ten days after the election.

BANKER ARRESTED

YOUNGSTOWN, O., Nov. 14.—George Patton, teller in the Dollar Savings and Trust Company here, was at liberty under $5,000 bond today following his arraignment on a charge of embezzlement. Officials said Patton's accounts were $1,500 short. He pleaded not guilty.

DEAN RESIGNS

CLEVELAND, O., Nov. 14.—The resignation of Dr. Carl A. Hamann as dean of the school of medicine, Western Reserve University, has been announced. Dr. Torald Sollmann, professor of pharmacology, will succeed him.

XENIA LIBRARY NOW HAS 30,000 BOOKS; CIRCULATION GROWS

Distribution Will Reach 100,000; Many Readers

Tuesday, June 26, 1906, the Xenia Library moved into its new Carnegie Building on E. Church St. The library moved into its new quarters with 10,000 volumes to its credit and succeeded in circulating over 26,000 books during that first year in its new location.

Today the library has more than 30,000 volumes, although many of these are never seen on the shelves at the main library. Fifteen hundred are used in making up collections to send to forty-seven schools in the county; others are in the deposit stations or branches which, within the last year, have been built up in the villages of Greene County.

So far this year 89,035 books have been circulated through the County Library and its stations. This means that the year's circulation will exceed the 100,000 mark.

One thousand three hundred and fifty-nine readers are registered at branches while 5,065 persons use the main library in Xenia.

When the Tuesday Club first organized the Xenia Library, it was housed in a small room in Eli Millen's building, Green St. Here on September 14, 1878, Xenia's first public library began its existence.

Somewhat prior to 1888, the library moved into a larger room in the same building, sharing its new quarters with the Y. M. C. A. Mr. Millen continued to give the space rent free to the two associations. In 1885 the first librarian, Miss Clara Martin, was employed. She was soon followed by Etta Carruthers, who in turn gave way to Elizabeth O. Kyle. On May 1, 1888, Miss Etta McElwain took over the librarianship.

At this time the library owned about 3,000 books, had several hundred subscribers and was circulating 10,000 books a year.

TRAVELOGUE GIVEN HERE PLEASES HUGE CROWD AT CHURCH

A packed church greeted the African travelogue, illustrated with hand colored pictures and told in a rapid fire and often humorous vein by Dr. Lucius E. Smith, at the Presbyterian Church Tuesday night. Hundreds of school children were present and with the adults filled the house to overflowing.

Dr. Charles L. Plymate, executive secretary of Dayton Presbytery, presided and introduced Dr. Smith, whose itinerary in this part of the country Dr. Plymate is managing.

The travelogue began at New York harbor and followed the route of the Smiths on into the tropical harbor on the west coast of Africa, in the Cameron District. Interesting events of the journey were told, some of them convulsing the audience in laughter.

Then into the jungles when "first-hand" pictures were shown of interesting natives and animal pictures were displayed including one huge elephant, which Dr. Smith killed. Long snakes were shown on the screen, along with a Python twelve feet long.

Details of the medical work in which he was engaged and rare tropical ailments were shown and commented on. They depicted the immensity of the work day by day for one lone physician.

Later were shown the jostling crowds at church and the smiling girls and boys, who were being given an opportunity to learn. The industrial work was shown with furniture being made, which has been shipped all over that part of the world.

Contrasts between the Christian village, and the native pagan village, made clear the change of life entailed and the consequent joy through Christian influence.

Dr. Smith closed his travelogue under the statue of liberty, where he began covering thousands of miles and seven years of time.

LIBRARY BUS

The "circulating library" of the Greene County District Library is shown above. This "book bus" transports books between branches and deposit stations, thus extending the service of the library to all outlying communities of the county.

GIVES FAITHFUL SERVICE

MISS McELWAIN

Not only is this the occasion of the fiftieth anniversary of the opening of the Xenia Public Library, but it is also the fortieth year since Miss Etta McElwain began her duties as librarian.

During those years Miss McElwain built the library into an institution of which Xenia may well be proud. She gave unstintingly of her time and energies. Nothing was too much trouble for her to do if it meant giving the library patrons greater service. Oftentimes she served without pay rather than see the library close its doors.

Many parents today feel they owe their love and understanding of books to her and ask nothing better than that their children too may find her at the desk at the library to pass on this love of books to them.

EDITOR NAMED FOR ANTIOCH'S ANNUAL

Announcement was made by the board of publications Wednesday of the appointment of Lewis S. Hart, an upper classman at Antioch College, as editor-in-chief of "The Towers," the official campus year book.

Hart has had considerable experience, both on the college weekly, "The Antiochian," and in the field of journalism. This year's book will be the seventy-fifth annual of the college.

Assisting him will be Harold Andrus, a senior, who will act in the capacity of business manager. Other appointments are: John T. Thompson, associate editor; James Earley, sports editor; and Edna Hourwich, art editor. Additional appointments will be made soon.

FARM SITUATION IS EXPLAINED TO CLUB

O. A. Dobbins, near Cedarville, one of the leading agriculturists of the state, discussed the farming situation when Xenia Rotarians entertained farmers of the county, at the weekly meeting Tuesday noon at the Elks' Club.

Each member of the club entertained a farmer as his guest at the meeting. Mr. Dobbins' talk was expertly handled, and was well received by his audience.

The Rotary Club has agreed to postpone next week's meeting in order that the members may take part in the workers' meeting in the interest of the Xenia Community Chest drive, next Tuesday.

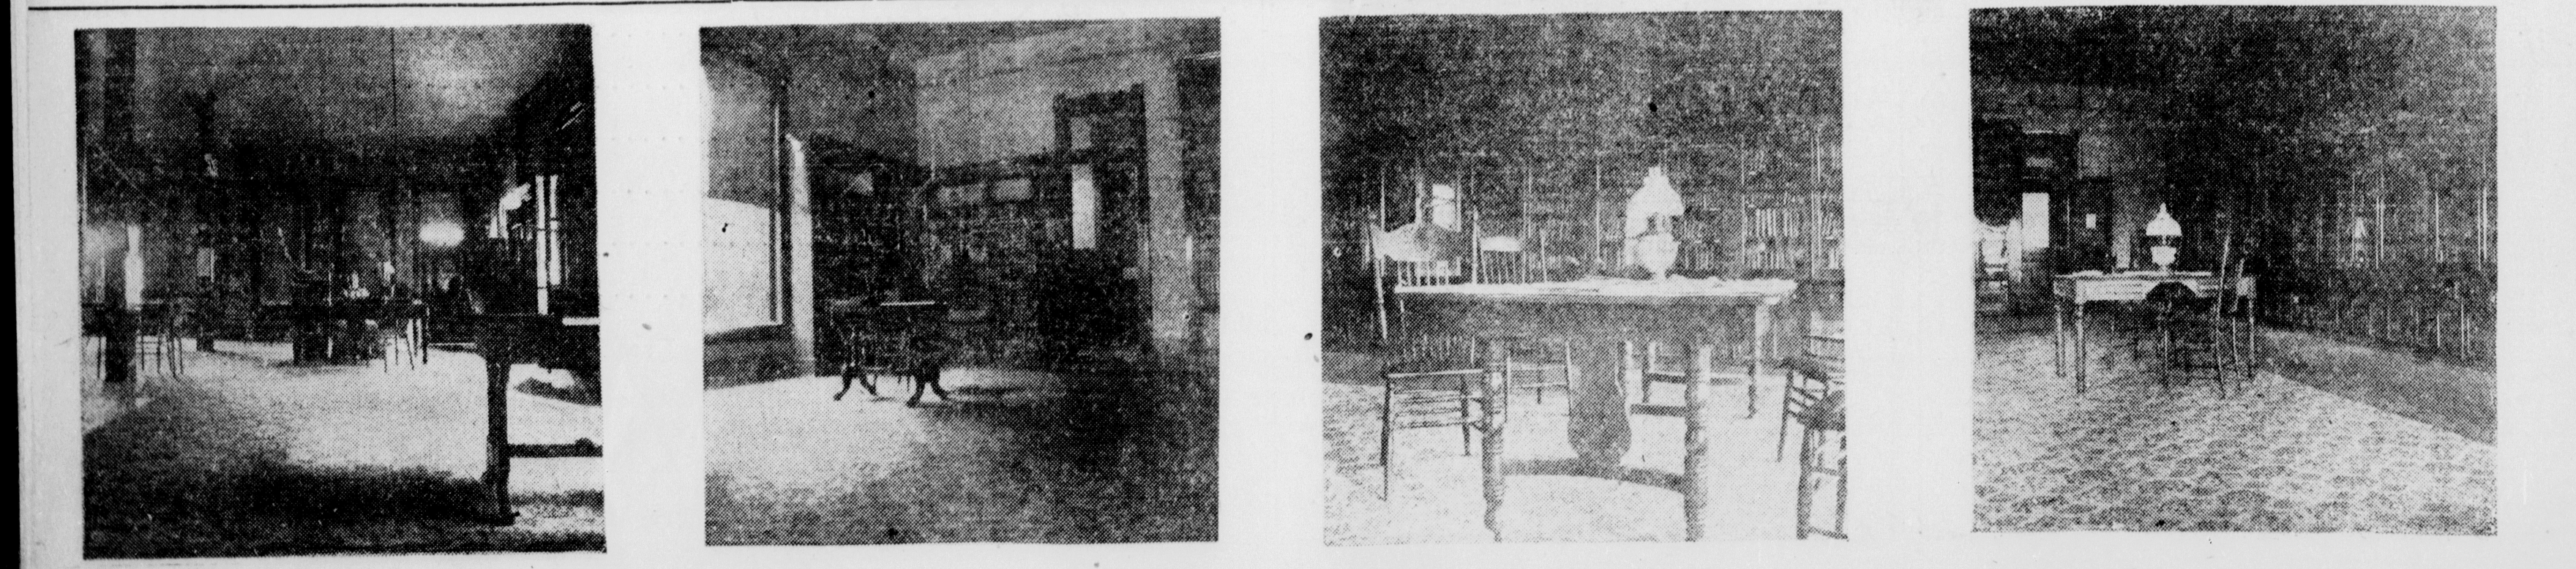

SCOUT MEETING

Regular meeting of Troop No. 41, Boy Scouts of America, will be held at the Scout cabin at 7:30 o'clock Thursday night. All registration cards must be turned in at this meeting, according to Scoutmaster R. H. Kingsbury.

The Bear Patrol is asked to furnish the firewood this week. Beginning this week, regular meetings will be attended each week by one of the troop committeemen. Each Scout will bring paper and pencil.

All old members desiring to register are asked to do so at this meeting without fail. Scoutmaster Kingsbury declared that fifteen Xenians attended the fourth session of the weekly training school at Springfield Tuesday night.

LIBRARY CELEBRATES 50th ANNIVERSARY

PROGRAM ON FRI DAY OBSERVES HALF-CENTURY OF EXISTENCE

Library Movement Began 112 Years Ago But Action Of "Tuesday Club" Brought Real Organization; Friends Invited To Birthday Party

GREENE COUNTY'S public library system is fifty years old. Fifty years of effort, emanating from a modest beginning has resulted in the present county-wide system of book distribution well-housed and catalogued and Friday library folk are going to celebrate the golden anniversary of the occasion.

There will be open house at the library Friday, with tea or the visitors and a special exhibit of new children's books to claim the attention of guests. Miss Mildred Sandoe, librarian, Miss Etta G. McElwain, whose tenure of service parallels the growth of the library itself and others identified with the organization, will play hosts to all Greene County on this occasion. Friday night there will be another program. Greene Countyans are not only invited but urged to attend, so that all may see the progress that has resulted from the humble efforts of the founders.

The first meeting of the subscribers was held on the fourth Saturday of March 1878, at which time a organization was effected. Subscribers to the paper were: James P. Espey, Josiah Grover, William T. Elkin, Philip Goral, William Ellsberry, Samuel Peckham, Joshua Martin, Moses Collier, John Boone, Thomas Hunter, John Gaff, John Haines, Thomas Hiespie, James Collier, John Hiespie, William Laughead, William Alexander, George Junkin, Jesse Atson, Robert W. Stevenson, Anthony Cannon, Samuel McBeth, Harrison and Beall, Jacob Hallas, Francis Kendall, James Fowler, Andrew Alexander, Joshua G. Taylor, Jacob Smith, Henry Morgan, James Lammie, James Galloway, Lewis Wright, W. A. West, Alexander Armstrong, William Richards, Daniel Keck, James Speace, William Carter, Robert Forsman, Thomas Embree.

The history of the library situation in Xenia from 1816 to 1878 is obscure and no records are left of the doings of the "company". The movement seems to have died out in the '70s.

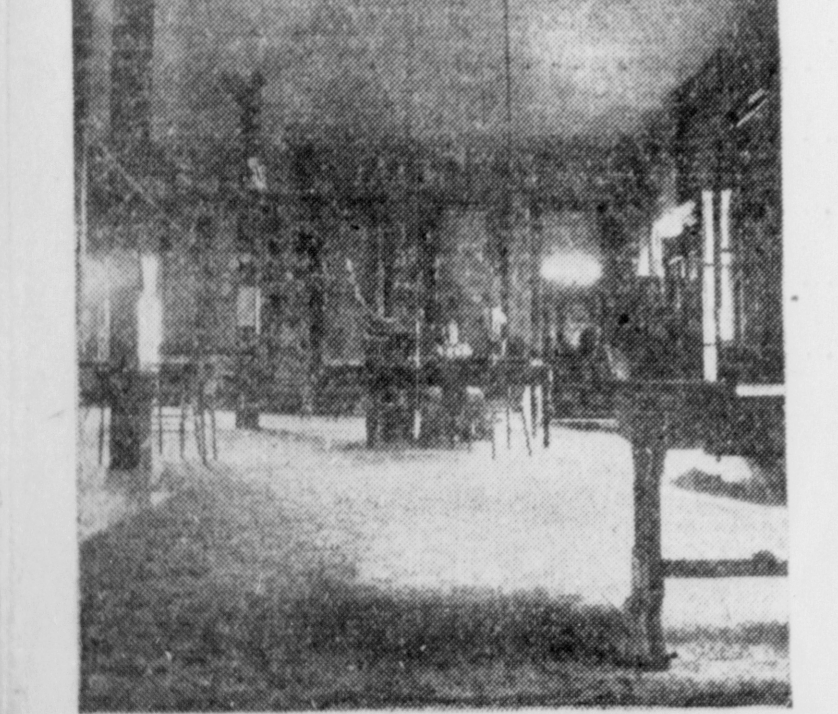

In the winter of 1877-78 a group of eight young women organized what they called the "Tuesday Club". The members were Elizabeth Ewing, Jennie Morris, Anna McCracken, Clara Allen, Belle Smith, Louisa F. King, Isadora F. King and Emma C. King. They shared literary papers, discussed literature, but found themselves handicapped by the lack of a library. Their need led to the meeting of August 20, 1878, when the Young Women's Library Association was organized. The first officers were: Anna McCracken, president; Emma C. King, vice-president; Jennie Morris, secretary and Belle Gatch, treasurer. Without funds to purchase books, members obtained permission to take the books of the Young Men's Christian Association as the nucleus of the library for the library immediately started out. The first books donated to the library at the same time sold dollar tickets which entitled the holder to use the library for one year. I. Miller, owner of the building Green St., where the room was leased, let them have the headquarters free of rent.

Here was opened the public library September 14, 1878. At the close of the first year the association was able to report 137 members holding tickets entitling them to the use of books. From 1878 to 1885 the library is open only on Wednesday afternoon and all day Saturday, the members taking turns as librarians. November 8, 1881 the inaugural incorporated themselves under the name of the Xenia Library Association, the original eight being members of the association. In 1885 the association decided to make a strenuous effort to increase the value of the library by placing upon the citizens of the city for donations. Their efforts were rewarded with donations to a amount of $227.50. They now felt they could afford librarian and Miss Clara Martin was employed. She was followed by Mrs. Ella Carruthers, who in turn was succeeded by Elizabeth Kyle. Miss Etta G. McElwain, who is still identified with the library, took the office May 1, 1888. The next change in the history of the library followed the legislative act of February 14, 1888, which empowered boards of education in lieu of the fourth grade, second class to levy a tax not to exceed one-half mill for the benefit and support of free public libraries. The library management voted to run the library over to the city and after the necessary tax levy is provided, the first free public library in Xenia was opened to the public September 1, 1889. In the fall of 1902 the management was the recipient of an offer

TWO KILLED WHEN TRAIN HITS AUTO

MANSFIELD, O., Nov. 14.—Deadman's Crossing has claimed two more lives. Jacob Bushey, 48, and his son, Harold, 24, were killed when their automobile was struck by a Pennsylvania passenger train at the crossing. The bodies were carried 300 feet before the speeding train was brought to a stop. The automobile was reduced to pieces of twisted steel and wood. The victims were returning from the Empire Steel plant, where they were employed, when the accident occurred.

PROGRESS HAS MARKED LIBRARY ACTIVITIES DURING 18 MONTHS

Progress has marked the activities of the Greene County District Library during the last year and one-half, since it was placed on a sound financial basis. Branch libraries have been opened at Xenia, Ross Twp., Yellow Springs, Wilberforce, Spring Valley and Bowersville. Deposit stations are being operated at Alpha, Zimmermann, Trebels, Clinton, New Burlington, Paintsville and Spring Valley. School and class room collections are sent regularly covering forty-seven schools. Circulation for the last eighteen months of record, from January 1, 1927 to June 30, 1928, amounted to 132 volumes, and increase of 43,264 volumes over the previous eighteen months. Circulation the first six months of this year amounted to 60,241 volumes, an increase of 29,729 over the previous six months.

BUT ONE CANDIDATE FILES EXPENSES

Although the time for filing expenses Friday, November 16 at midnight, only one campaign expense account has been filed with R. E. Dunkel, clerk of the board of elections, he announced Wednesday.

The low expense statement on file is that of Dr. F. M. Chambliss, re-elected coroner at the November 6 election. His account shows he received nothing and spent nothing on his campaign. All local Republican and Democratic candidates, whether elected or defeated, are required to file accounts listing their campaign receipts and expenses with the election board within ten days after the election.

BANKER ARRESTED
YOUNGSTOWN, O., Nov. 14.—George Patton, teller in the Dollar Savings and Trust Company here, was at liberty under $5,000 bond today following his arraignment on a charge of embezzlement. Officials said Patton's accounts were $1,500 short. He pleaded not guilty.

XENIA LIBRARY NOW HAS 30,000 BOOKS; CIRCULATION GROWS

Distribution Will Reach 100,000; Many Readers

Tuesday, June 26, 1906, the Xenia Library moved into its new Carnegie Building on E. Church St. The library moved into its new quarters with 10,000 volumes to its credit and succeeded in circulating over 26,000 books during that first year in its new location.

Today the library has more than 30,000 volumes, although many of these are never seen on the shelves at the main library. Fifteen hundred are used in making up collections to send to forty-seven schools in the county; others are in the deposit stations or branches which, within the last year, have been built up in the villages of Greene County.

So far this year 89,035 books have been circulated through the County Library and its stations. This means that the year's circulation will exceed the 100,000 mark. One thousand three hundred and fifty-nine readers are registered at branches while 5,065 persons use the main library in Xenia.

When the Tuesday Club first organized the Xenia Library, it was housed in a small room in Eli Miller's building, Green St. Here on September 14, 1878, Xenia's first public library began its existence. Somewhat prior to 1888, the library moved into a larger room in the same building, sharing its new quarters with the Y. M. C. A. Mr. Miller continued to give the space rent free to the two associations. In 1885 the first librarian, Miss Clara Martin, was employed. She was soon followed by Ella Carruthers, who in turn gave way to Elizabeth O. Kyle. On May 1, 1888, Miss Etta McElwain took over the librarianship.

At this time the library owned about 3,000 books, had several hundred subscribers and was circulating 10,000 books a year.

TRAVELOGUE GIVEN HERE PLEASES HUGE CROWD AT CHURCH

A packed church greeted the African travelogue, illustrated with hand colored pictures and told in a rapid fire and often humorous vein by Dr. Lucius E. Smith, at the Presbyterian Church Tuesday night. Hundreds of school children were present and with the adults filled the house.

Dr. Charles L. Plymate, executive secretary of Dayton Presbytery, presided and introduced Dr. Smith, whose itinerary in this part of the country Dr. Plymate is managing. On August 20, 1878, the Young Women's Library Association was organized by the Tuesday Club with Anna McCracken, president; Emma C. King, vice president; Jennie Morris, secretary; and Belle Gatch, treasurer. Elizabeth Ewing, Clara Allen, Elouisa King, and Isadora F. King were the other members of the original association.

Some of these are still residents of Xenia and take a keen interest in the present welfare of the library while the library still looks to them for advice and encouragement.

Details of the medical work in which he was engaged and rare tropical ailments were shown and commented on. They depicted the immensity of the work day by day for one lone physician. Later were shown the jostling crowds at church and the smiling girls and boys, who were being given an opportunity to learn. The industrial work was shown with furniture being made, which has been shipped all over that part of the world.

Contrasts between the Christian village, and the native pagan village, made clear the change of life entailed and the consequent joy through Christian influence. Dr. Smith closed his travelogue under the statue of liberty, where he began covering thousands of miles and seven years of time.

DEAN RESIGNS
CLEVELAND, O., Nov. 14.—The resignation of Dr. Carl A. Hamann as dean of the school of medicine, Western Reserve University, has been announced. Dr. Torald Sollmann, professor of pharmacology, will succeed him.

SCOUT MEETING

Regular meeting of Troop No. 41, Boy Scouts of America, will be held at the Scout cabin at 7:30 o'clock Thursday night. All registration cards must be turned in at this meeting, according to Scoutmaster R. H. Kingsbury. The Scout Patrol is asked to furnish the firewood this week. Beginning this week, regular meetings will be attended each week by one of the troop committee men. Each Scout will bring paper and pencil. All old members desiring to register are asked to do so at this meeting without fail. Scoutmaster Kingsbury declared that fifteen Xenians attended the fourth session of the weekly training school at Springfield Tuesday night.

The Little Yellow House By BEATRICE BURTON -- RELEASED BY CENTRAL PRESS ASSN. ©1928

CHAPTER I

The fence had been painted white, too, and Mrs. Milburn had tied all of her broken bridal-wreath bushes against the pickets with strips of linen. There they stood like little cripples in a hospital ward.

She turned swiftly when she saw Emmy, and into her face came its old, bright, rosy look.

"See, Emmy, here's the little yellow house again!" she called as she waved her hand. "After all these years! Now you can see how pretty it was when your father and I moved into it!"

Emmy nodded silently with one arm around Mrs. Milburn's shoulder.

"Isn't it a shame that he can't see it the way it used to be?" A wistful note crept into her mother's pretty voice. "He always liked the yellow paint so much."

Just think, Emmy, you've all grown up and I've got old and tired out and your father's gone. But the house is just the way it was when your father rented it."

She swallowed hard for a minute. "I always feel, somehow," she would up, "that so long as I've got the house I haven't lost—him."

From his ladder Robb waved a paint brush at Emmy, but he did not come down to her.

"How's Old Maid's Castle?" he called, his teeth flashing in a boyish grin, and Emmy answered cheerfully that she loved living in it.

"So you're painting houses now instead of pictures, eh what?" she chafed Perry as she and her mother started up the path to the house.

He laughed. "Yeah, I've given up painting for a while—I'm going to try to sell some of my stuff for a change."

"What do you mean?" asked Emmy, puzzled.

Her mother answered her question. "He means he's going down to New York tomorrow night with some of his things to show them to some art editor. Is that what you call them? One of those men who buy the pictures for magazines?"

Emmy nodded.

"Well, Perry has been sending his pictures around to the different art editors," Mrs. Milburn went on to explain, "and one of them wrote and asked him to send on some more of his things. I tell him that I'm sure he'll get some regular work now, doing illustrations for stories and articles and things. I'm just sure of it!"

She opened the front door. "And," she added breathlessly, "he made up his mind this morning to take his things down himself, instead of sending them—and I am—going—with him!" Her blue eyes shone and her voice trembled with excitement.

"What does Lovey think of all this?" asked Emmy. "Doesn't she want to go with him?"

Mrs. Milburn shook her head. "No, she's going to keep house for Dan and Robb while we're away. She wants to do it to see if she can. She's been learning how to cook and clean lately—coming down here to help me. Tonight she's coming to watch me set my bread—I thought I'd make a batch before I went away. The boys love home-made bread, and Lovey has only reached the pancake stage of baking." She laughed. "I guess pancakes are fried, though, aren't they?"

Emmy stood still in the little hall, looking around her.

"She scarcely knew the house. All the old, faded wall paper had been stripped from the walls and they were covered with some that was new and plain."

"The boys did it," said Mrs. Milburn, running her hand over it; "and they fixed the hot water pipes, too. Just come out here and take a look at the kitchen."

In the dining room, as she passed through it, Emmy had a glimpse of the table set for supper. It was a most unfashionable-looking table, with its celery in a tall glass like a bouquet of flowers, its glass dishes of corn salad and catsup and home-made currant jelly that glistened like a mound of garnets. But it was clean and appetizing, and from the kitchen came the tantalizing smell of bean soup boiling in its kettle.

"We aren't having much tonight—just bread and soup and salad," said Mrs. Milburn, opening the kitchen door. "But will you stay, anyway, Emmy? You know what the Scripture says: 'Better a dinner of herbs where love is than a stalled ox and hatred therewith.'"

"No, I can't stay," answered Emmy, thinking of love and Robb Hollis and the ring of garnet and pearl. She would talk things over with her mother and then, as she was leaving, she would give Robb back his ring. And so would end that chapter!

The kitchen had been painted white, and there were new cretonne shades at the windows. Mrs. Milburn turned on both of the faucets, and it was like a miracle to Emmy to see hot water come steaming into the sink where no hot water had steamed for twenty-six years.

"Electric lights turned on, too," her mother went on, counting the miracles, "and a new water heater! And that broken place in the colored window on the stairs fixed! I just can't believe it's the same old house. I truly can't!"

Through the kitchen windows, with their snowy sash curtains pushed back, Emmy could see young Dan raking up the wet brown leaves of last autumn in the backyard. He whistled. "I'm Tired of Everything But You" as he worked, and he worked with a will.

Emmy flung up a window and called out to him. "Well, I see they've reformed even you, Daniel!"

"Sez which?" Dan called back at her, with a sheepish smile.

"Robb gives him a dollar a week to help me around the house," and on Saturdays he delivers packages for Mr. Burkhardt," his mother said. "He pays for his own lunches at school—he won't carry one, you know—and he's saving up for business school or college or whatever place he wants to go after he graduates from high school. And really, Emmy, he's doing well at school. Robb makes him study. He likes Robb and he'll do anything for him."

They went upstairs.

"I want to show you the new bathroom bowl," Mrs. Milburn said. "Robb bought it at some wholesale place and put it in, himself. It's some new kind of porcelain that won't crack and won't break." She rapped the smooth, shining surface with great satisfaction.

"Where does he get all the money to do these things?"

"Well, he's been superintending at the mill ever since a week ago Saturday," her mother explained. "The old one left to take a job in some rubber works down in Akron and Mr. Robb stepped right into his shoes. He can fill them, too. I saw Jim Tello on the street the other day and he told me what a fine young chap Robb is—not that he or anybody else had to tell ME anything about Robb Hollis!" she bridled.

"I told Jim Tello a thing or two, myself," she added with spirit. "I told him I certainly hoped he'd keep this street up better than your Uncle Bill Parks did. And I told him he would be doing me a good turn if he'd plant a little ivy around that mill of his. It would take only a few years to cover that eye-sore and make it look just like an English castle—I gave him a slip from my own ivy that came from our lot in the cemetery."

Emmy laughed blithely. "Mother, you're a joke! I can just feature Jim Tello planting ivy around his mill!"

"Oh, but I really think he will. He took the little slip I gave him. As usual, Mrs. Milburn was hoping for the best—and not only hoping for it, but actually expected it to happen."

"Perry just would take me to New York with him," she said, after a little pause. "He said it wouldn't cost so very much, so long as he had to go himself. Well, anyway, I'm going and I can't leave it. I suppose, I shouldn't, but all my life you can't think how I've wanted to see the aquarium and the Flatiron building and the elevated. You know, Emmy, you read and hear about those things, and you can't help wanting to see them. Only I never thought I should get the chance." She was as pleased as a child.

FEDERAL REGULATION OF INDUSTRIAL PROFITS ASKED By SMITH W. BROOKHART United States Senator From Iowa

(Smith W. Brookhart was born in Scotland County, Missouri, February 2, 1869. He was educated in the country schools of the county and attended high school a year and a half and later Southern Iowa Normal School. He studied law in two law offices of Keosauqua, Ia. Teaching in country schools and high school for five years, he was admitted to the bar in 1892 and began practicing at Washington, Ia., and served as county attorney for six years. He was elected to the United States Senate to fill a vacancy in 1922, and was re-elected for the term 1925-1931. He served in the Spanish American and World wars. He is a Progressive Republican and has written two books on rifle training. His home is in Washington, Ia.)

I believe that high and unjust prices, oppressive both to labor and to the rest of the people of this country, demand action, and I suggest a proposal as a new remedy. Here is the situation which in my opinion calls for the serious consideration of congress, and I have been studying the problems of labor for the last eight years.

I do not mean by this industrial labor only, because in my opinion the problems of the farmer who also toils is more acute than any other problem of the present day.

The problem of the man who earns his bread by the sweat of his brow has been the problem of the ages. Civilization has advanced, labor of hand and labor of brain that create everything. All other agencies of production, including capital itself, are but the tools or the implements of labor.

It is not very far back in our own history that labor was a commodity of barter and sale. Even the laborer himself was a chattel of slavery. We have advanced far from those standards.

When the government by law extends protection to an industry, it has the inherent right to regulate the profits of that industry. Even when by law a corporation is created, it secures an existence by virtue of a grant from the whole people. The government and the power that makes such a grant has the right to determine the sort of life it shall live and to regulate the profits it shall take from the people.

MRS. JULIA WHALEN CALLED SUDDENLY; FUNERAL ON FRIDAY

After being in failing health for some time, Mrs. Julia Whalen was suddenly stricken and died at her home, 223 Cincinnati Ave., Tuesday afternoon at 3:20 o'clock. She had been in failing health five years and her condition was serious during the past year. She was able to be up and about her home Tuesday until the fatal attack, however.

Mrs. Whalen was born in County Kerry, Ireland, but lived in Xenia thirty-four years. Mr. Whalen died in 1903.

Surviving are the following children: Mrs. Mary Carlos, Xenia; John Whalen, Loveland, O.; Patrick and Lorne Mayor Arthur Whalen and Miss Margaret A. at home and Mrs. Anna Ashbaugh, and Mrs. Walter Bentley of this city. Four children preceded her in death and three grand children also survive with one brother, James Flynn of Dayton.

Mrs. Whalen was a member of St. Bridg Catholic Church. Requiem mass will be solemnized at the church Friday morning at 8:30 o'clock. Burial will be in St. Bridg Cemetery.

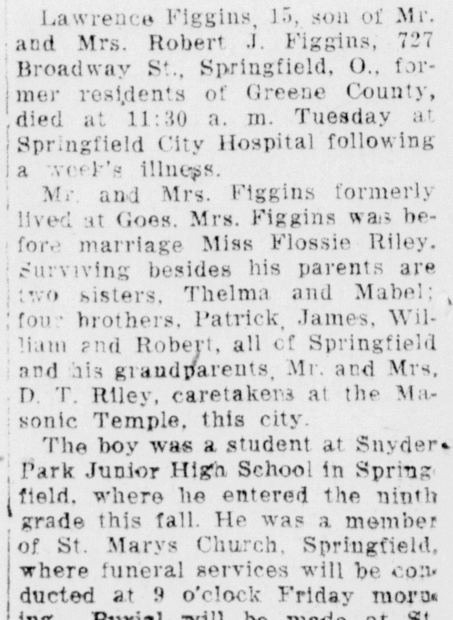

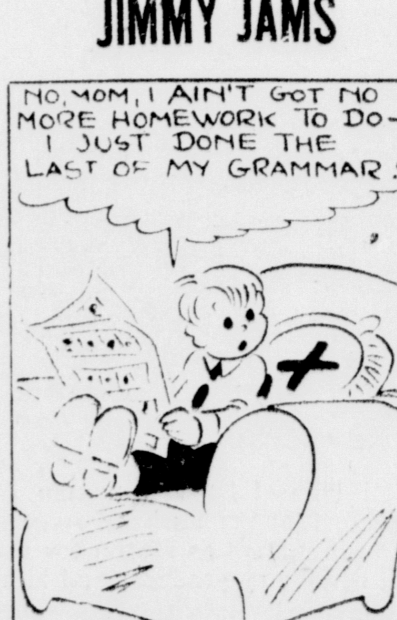

LAWRENCE FIGGINS CLAIMED BY DEATH

Lawrence Figgins, 15, son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert J. Figgins, 727 Broadway St., Springfield, O., former residents of Greene County, died at 11:30 a. m. Tuesday at Springfield City Hospital following a week's illness.

Mr. and Mrs. Figgins formerly lived at Goes. Mrs. Figgins was before marriage Miss Flossie Riley. Surviving besides his parents are two sisters, Thelma and Mabel; four brothers, Patrick, James, William and Robert, all of Springfield and his grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. D. T. Riley, caretakers at the Masonic Temple, this city.

The boy was a student at Snyder Park Junior High School in Springfield, where he entered the ninth grade this fall. He was a member of St. Marys Church, Springfield, where funeral services will be conducted at 9 o'clock Friday morning. Burial will be made at St. Paul's Cemetery, Yellow Springs.

NEW YORK, Nov. 14.—The talkies are a tragedy. No doubt. I've heard many sad tales of the march of progress—of heroines who squeak and of heroes who lisp.

But the latest and most tense suspense is over Jack Dempsey, former heavyweight champion, who lost a close decision in a spoken play only to sign for a bout with the talking movies.

Well, the question now is: "Will Jack lisp?" And the answer is, he most probably will.

Of course, "ghost voices" are appearing. Folk with good voices do not want to be "ghosted."

Then one's neighbor turns to him and remarks in awe: "Marvelous!"

I, at least, am happy to know at last what heroes and heroines in the movies talk about. Oh, well, Hollywood is a tame place. But wait till you hear the new talkies being made in New York. I'm to visit the studios. I'll probably hear something that'll make me sit up—not down. Well (gloomily), maybe.

Twenty Years '08- Ago -'28

Captain Arthur Meeker, who has been temporarily in charge of the Salvation Army work in Xenia, has been appointed to assist Major Andrews at divisional headquarters at Cincinnati.

Mr. Thomas Tindall received a broken arm in an accident at the paper mill at Cedarville.

The G. A. R. posts of Cincinnati have instructions to begin arranging for the annual Christmas gifts for the children in the O. S. and S. O. Home.

The newest recruit to the movies—Miss Elsie Allen, Atlantic City, N. J., high school girl who won a film contract after winning a "summer girl" contest in the resort city.

the talking while the actors (such as Jack Dempsey) do the acting.

But that isn't all of the dreadful occurrences in the path of progress. Beautiful scenes are disappearing. The DeMilles no longer put a picture through with society (a) at the dance, (b) at the Ritz, (c) at the Garden of Eden swimming pool on a private estate.

The Warners have changed that. (See any Sunday movie page on the wonderful expansion of the Youngstown to pioneers in the talkies—huge organization—swell opening nights on Broadway—donals three times a week on further mergers—earnings so many millions—)

Well, the Warners are said to have decided that talkies are enough in themselves and therefore it's unnecessary to have numerous scenes. Therefore, so the story goes, the Warners, in buying First National said (it is reported) that $50,000 is enough to spend on any picture instead of $131,000 or $1,310,000.

As a result, talking movies don't have more sets than a stage play—it seems to me.

Take "The Home Towners." There's a nice old-fashioned play, which through the march of progress, changes the movie of many

OPINION AFFECTS
TRANSPORTATION OF SCHOOL PUPILS

State Director of Education Clifton has just issued a circular letter advising boards of education and superintendents of the recent decision of Attorney General Turner affecting transportation of children to high schools.

This decision may affect quite a number of pupils in Greene County living in districts not centralized or consolidated. He says that if a pupil lives more than four miles from high school the board of education must take action on the question of his transportation. This may be, (1) to transport him by regular bus or wagon, (2) to provide his transportation by common carrier, (3) to pay for his transportation individually or in a group with others, (4) to provide his board near a high school in lieu of transportation, (5) to make a finding that his transportation is not necessary or, in the words of the law, "advisable and practicable."

The parent must appeal to the local board or county board or both in time to have action taken. The law applying to elementary schools is substantially the same, the limit being two miles.

FALL PIGS

Fall pigs should be given a chance to run on forage crops for a time after weaning, says the animal husbandry department of the Ohio State University. This practice will give them a better start for the long winter months. Fall pigs demand the best of attention to feeding and handling if they are to be profitable to the grower.

During the growing and fattening periods, concentrates fed to the pigs should be of high energy value with some protein supplement. Corn probably is the best feed from the point of energy value, but must be balanced with high protein foods. Skim-milk and buttermilk, both of them high in protein and mineral matter, are good to balance grains. Two and one-half to three pounds of milk should be fed with one pound of corn for 50-pound pigs. As the animals grow the proportion of milk may be decreased.

Tankage, fish meal, alfalfa meal or oil meal should be fed where milk is not available. A combination of 50 per cent fish meal or tankage, 25 per cent alfalfa meal and 25 per cent oil meal has been successfully used with corn or other feed to start the pigs. About 15 or 20 per cent of the protein supplement should be fed in the beginning, and gradually decreased until at the finishing period only about 5 per cent is fed.

COMPLIMENTS CITY ON CHARITY DRIVE

Xenia was complimented for its progressiveness in planning a Community Chest Drive by Lieut. Gov. Kerr, of the Kiwanis Clubs of Ohio, from Troy, O., who delivered an address before Xenia Kiwanians at the Elks' Club, Tuesday evening.

Troy has been successfully staging a Chest Drive every year since the World War, Mr. Kerr said and he urged the Kiwanians to fully cooperate in the worthy movement here.

The remainder of his talk was devoted to the discussion of Kiwanis principles and ideals and its work over the world.

Beno Rosenheimer, music instructor at the O. S. and S. O. Home, sang two songs, accompanied by Miss Mary McDonnell. The program followed the weekly dinner.

ELEAZER

Mr. and Mrs. Oakley Edgington and family spent Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. Adams Jacks. Other visitors were: Fred, Harmon, Grant, and Tom Jacks, of Detroit, Mich.; John Jacks of Xenia; Mr. and Mrs. Lewis Adsit, of Chillicothe, Mr. and Mrs. Lee Robins and daughter, Marilyn of Columbus, Mr. and Mrs. Calud Jacks and children, Barbara Jean and Marvin and Roy Allen of Jamestown.

Miss Ruth Chitty and Miss Ruth Lewis attended the teachers' meeting at Columbus Friday and Saturday.

Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Faulkner entertained with dinner at their beautiful new home Saturday evening, in honor of Mr. Emery Beall and Mrs. Faulkner's birthday. Beautiful roses and the chrysanthemums decorated the Faulkner home. Those present were: Mr. and Mrs. Emery Beall, Mr. and Mrs. John Fudge, Mr. and Mrs. T. C. Long, Mr. and Mrs. L. H. Hartsock, Mrs. Harry Sohn, Mrs. Anna Harve-stick, Mrs. Daisy R. Cores, and Miss Irma Johnson of Dayton. Mr. and Mrs. Vernon Jones entertained the Rev. Mr. Arthur at dinner Sunday evening.

Mr. and Mrs. L. H. Hartsock entertained at their Sunday dinner guests: Mr. and Mrs. Leigh Hutchison, Mr. and Mrs. John Harner, Harold Harner, Mr. and Mrs. Ed-ton Haine, Mrs. Daisy Reckless, Mr. and Mrs. W. P. Maddux of Piquette.

A THREE DAYS' COUGH IS YOUR DANGER SIGNAL

Coughs from colds may lead to serious trouble. You can stop them now with Creomulsion, an emulsified creosote that is pleasant to take. Creomulsion is a medical discovery with two-fold action; it soothes and heals the inflamed membranes and inhibits germ growth.

Of all known drugs creosote is recognized by high medical authorities as one of the greatest healing agencies for coughs from colds and bronchial irritations. Creomulsion contains, in addition to creosote, other healing elements which soothe and heal the inflamed membranes and stop the irritation, while the creosote goes on to the stomach, is absorbed into the blood, attacks the seat of the trouble and checks the growth of the germs.

Creomulsion is guaranteed satisfactory in the treatment of coughs from colds, bronchitis and minor forms of bronchial irritations, and is excellent for building up the system after colds or flu. Money refunded if not relieved after taking according to directions. Ask your druggist. (adv.)
